QUERY DANSON IN PAMPHLET CASE

Rush Plans For S. A. Bridge

PROJECT TO START SOON

Assurance that the new Santa Ana river span bridge on Santa Ana boulevard will be put under construction within two weeks was given by S. V. Cortelyou, Southern California engineer for the state department of public works, today The Register learned.

Contacted this afternoon, Councilman Ernest H. Layton, street commissioner, confirmed the report. The bridge, to cost $145,000, will be of the span, high arch type so that no such flood catastrophe as occurred March 3 when piling of the bridge stopped debris, wrecked the bridge and flooded surrounding valuable property, can re-occur.

PWA Project

The construction will be handled entirely by the state as a PWA project, the city of Santa Ana not being a party to the job nor its cost.

PWA officials in Washington, D. C., made the bridge construction possible almost immediately when they approved contracts, Councilman Layton explained. A special allocation of $25,000 was made by the state from a special flood-damage fund allocated by the state legislature following the flood. The $25,000 was designated for the Santa Ana boulevard bridge. It will augment PWA funds allocated to pay 45 per cent of the bridge's cost while the remainder of the $145,000 cost will be paid out of state gasoline tax funds allocated to Santa Ana for improvement of state highways.

6 Months Job

The bridge will be completed and ready for opening of Santa Ana boulevard again within six months after start of construction work, Councilman Layton said. The state will call for bids on the construction at once and contracts awarded shortly afterward. Councilman Layton has been working hard during recent weeks to bring pressure to bear for the bridge's early construction because of the strong desire of property owners to have the bridge built.

Work will go on regularly without interruption, no matter what kind of weather the county has, the councilman stated.

The new bridge, without any piling—to block debris in stormy weather—will have four 12 traffic lanes with a three-foot-in-width dividing strip along the center line of the roadway, together with sidewalks. The roadway grade will be five feet above the present roadway grade.

Problems Of Mining Discussed

TUCSON, Ariz., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Mining engineers and mine executives of the nation sat at conference tables here today to discuss the industry's major problems.

Work on a mountain of copper ore at Morenci, Ariz., was told the delegates of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers meeting by W. C. Lawson, Phelps Dodge corporation engineer.

Other discussions outlined processes used at the Copper Queen mine at Bisbee, and the Kennecott Copper Corporation's mines at Ray and Hayden, milling methods at the Ajo and the Cactus mine at Mohave, Calif., and smelting advances in the industry.

Nazis Take Over Monasteries

INNSBRUCK, Austria, Nov. 3.—(UP) — Elite guards and storm troops occupied the Serviten monastery today in accordance with a decree of Josef Bruckel, Reich commissioner for Austria.

Specific grounds for the action or the ultimate disposition of the monastery's monks was not known.

It was reported without confirmation that other monasteries have been occupied similarly throughout Austria in recent weeks and would become homes for the elite guards, the storm troopers and the Hitler youth.

White Tomato Is New "Discovery"

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Dr. Jonas Clark, 85-year-old Gilroy physician and farmer, today disclosed he had developed a white tomato after eight years of experimentation.

Dr. Clark described the tomato as "absolutely white, about the same shape as the ordinary tomato, but much sweeter."

He predicted a commercial use of the new tomato, which he produced by saving and replanting seeds from one particular vine of yellow tomatoes that were unusually light in color.

Playing It Cagey, Now

Playing badminton proved bad luck for Andrea Leeds, above, Hollywood movie actress, recently, for she fell and broke a bone in her right foot. Now she is being literally and figuratively cagey, for as pictured here, she has the injured member enclosed in a cage, while she confines her athletic activities to playing the marble game seen at right.

2000 MEMBERS IN 30 DAYS IS GOAL OF NEW CITRUS LEAGUE

Five hundred citrus growers last night adopted a slogan, "The Greater Good for the Greater Number," announced a drive for 2000 members in 30 days, and set out under auspices of the California Citrus Growers League to set their house in order.

Meeting in Anaheim Union High school auditorium, officers of the new fact-finding organization outlined its purposes to the crowd, heard a round-table discussion of its probable course and benefit, and welcome members to the fold from as far off as Porterville, Escondido, Arlington, Upland and Los Angeles county.

"Grower Holds Sack"

President Thomas L. McFadden struck the keynote for the organization, formed last month, when he told the audience:

"This is a business man's group, for business men. The grower has been holding the sack while everybody else connected with the industry has gotten his—this year your hired man will make more money than you will—but we're going to change that.

"We can do no good by throwing bricks, but we can do good by striving for union in our industry, and by intelligent, workmanlike discussion of our problems and search for a remedy."

McFadden stressed that the organization will not war with existing citrus agencies, but will work in cooperation with the exchanges and packing houses toward the ultimate

REGISTER'S COOKING SCHOOL PROVES POPULAR; 1031 ATTEND

Described by local theater officials and other residents of Santa Ana and Orange county as "the finest and most enthusiastic cooking school in Santa Ana history," the Register-Southern Counties Gas company school of gas cookery opened yesterday with 1,031 persons in attendance, a check-up revealed.

"The opening yesterday was the greatest of its kind in the city's history," Eddie Sugden, manager of the West Coast theater where the classes are being held, declared. "And this is the 17th cooking school I have been assisting with. I've never before seen such enthusiasm."

Well Received

Mrs. Margaret Lackland, expert home economist, conducting the classes and demonstrations of preparing food, said her audience "was the most enthusiastic, attentive and receptive" she had ever seen during her long experience in conducting cooking schools.

She is being introduced each day by Eleanor Elliott of The Register staff. Hundreds more women turned out with enthusiasm today for the second class, lasting from 2 until 4 p. m. Another class will be held tomorrow at the same time with everyone invited free of charge. Numerous door prizes and other prizes are being distributed among those attending the events.

Robert Campbell of The Register advertising staff is in charge of distributing the prizes, assisted by two other persons. Scores of other prizes, including food prepared expertly and efficiently by Mrs. Lackland, are still being

Fall Fatal To Newspaper Man

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Victor Watson, former editor of Hearst newspapers in New York and Chicago, jumped or fell to his death today from a window on the 11th floor of the Hotel Abbey in Midtown.

A letter addressed to his mother was found in his pockets. On the back of the letter was an unfinished note scrawled in pencil and addressed to the coroner.

Attaches of the hotel said Watson registered under the name of Jones this morning and was found dead on a third floor setback soon afterward. His mother was reported prostrated. Watson had been associated with the Hearst enterprises for many years. He held executive positions here on the Evening Journal, the Daily Mirror and the American.

Menuhin Wins Bout With Union

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Any intention of calling a sympathy strike of the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra against playing with Yehudi Menuhin tonight was abandoned today by the American Guild of Musical Artists.

The young virtuoso's concert will not be interfered with "because this would be breaking faith with the public," Frank Chapman, Pacific coast head of the guild, announced.

Thus it appeared that Menuhin's controversy with the guild will be shelved while he plays his violin with the orchestra before a full house tonight and tomorrow afternoon.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Florence M. Robinson, film extra, sought $30,000 damages today from Dr. Spencer Muir Crump, a dentist, whom she charged yanked out her bridgework, dropped her network of molars into a drawer in his office, and forcibly ejected her because she refused to pay a balance of $90 owed on the dental work.

Because of the dentist's action, she charged, she was forced to subsist on liquids over a long period.

Dr. Crump denied her charges.

Delay Action On Lewis-Louis Fight

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Signing of papers for the heavyweight championship bout between Joe Louis and John Henry Lewis on Jan. 27 was deferred today until Nov. 25.

Czechs Lose Border Area

VIENNA, Nov. 3.—(UP) — The Vienna conference adjourned harmoniously today after a 75-minute session which revised the map of Central Europe for the third time this autumn by granting Hungary 4635 square miles of territory and 850,000 inhabitants of Czechoslovakia.

The conferees—under the domination of Germany and Italy—had ended for the moment the Czechoslovak minority problem which a few weeks ago threatened to plunge all of Europe into war.

Dissastisfied

Hungary got most of the Czechoslovak territory that she had demanded—a solid strip along the full length of her northern border. And although the delegates from all four nations—Germany, Italy, Hungary and Czechoslovakia — were leaving here with shows of cordiality and mutual reliance, reports from Prague and Budapest indicated that the treaty they had signed was being widely denounced by Czechoslovak and Hungarian citizens.

SMASHING VICTORY CLAIMED BY REBELS

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Spanish Insurgent armies reported smashing advances today and claimed that the four month campaign on the Ebro front had entered its "final phase."

The Nationalist headquarters advices said a steady forward drive by their troops, led by airplanes which the Loyalists described as German and Italian craft, had penetrated the government defenses to within a mile of the River Ebro.

Thousands Die

Loyalist front line dispatches said that the Insurgents had made repeated strong attacks after artillery and aviation bombardment, but that their "slight" advances had been made at the cost of thousands of casualties. The dispatches did not admit that the main government positions had been taken.

The big offensive—latest in more than half a dozen costly attempts to retake the heights—was started by the Nationalist armies on Sunday and gathered momentum day

L. A. Vice Squad Raids Chinese

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(UP)—The sheriff's vice squad raided an elaborate Chinese gambling establishment in the Gardena district early today, arrested 11 Chinese operators, dispersed 200 Negro patrons and confiscated paraphernalia and $1800 in cash.

The deputies used sledge hammers and battering rams to break through a high wire fence surrounding the place and the doors of the house.

Capt. George Contereras, who led the raid, said several shots were fired at his deputies from the crowd of fleeing Negroes, but none took effect. He said operators of the place previously had conducted a gambling establishment inside the city limits but had moved into county territory after the inauguration of Mayor Fletcher Bowron's vice crusade.

Says U. S. Agent 'Held Out' On Her

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Charles S. Vorck is an internal revenue agent and it is his business to see that the other fellow doesn't "hold out" on the government.

But when it came to himself he even held out on his wife to the extent that he hid apples from other members of the family, the wife, Mrs. Sabina F. Vorck, charged in a divorce action filed today.

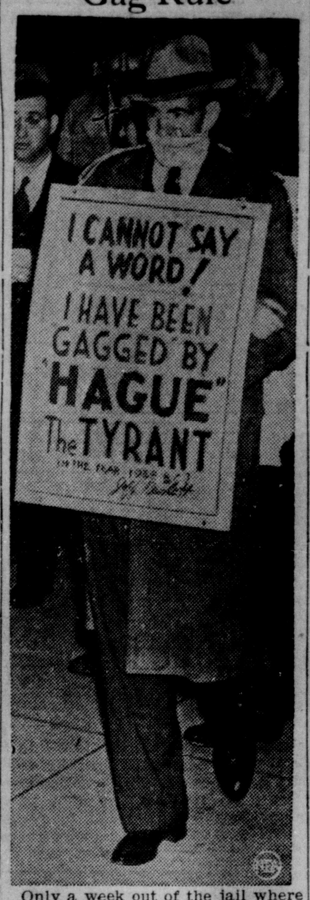

She said her husband refused to buy apples for the family but purchased some for himself and then hid them in a laundry bag after she retired for the night.

Stepin Fetchit Sued for Taxes

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Lincoln Perry, the gangling Negro known to movie audiences as Stepin Fetchit, was promised some real-life trouble today in a suit filed to collect $2728 he owes the state for income taxes.

Franchise Tax Commissioner Charles J. McColgan listed Perry in superior court as delinquent on his 1937 income tax payments,

"Gag Rule"

Only a week out of the jail where he had been sent for six months for trying to speak in Jersey City, James F. "Jeff" Burkitt, foe of Mayor Frank Hague, called an impromptu meeting and appeared on Jersey City's streets self-gagged in the manner shown above. Police thereupon "saved" him from an allegedly hostile mob.

L. A. CIVIL SERVICE SALES ARE EXPOSED

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(UP)—The latest sensation in the city's civil service scandal today was a price list indicating that men paid $1 a minute for advance peeks at the examinations for policemen and firemen.

District Attorney Buron Fitts said the prices were those charged at a "civil service mill" set up in a downtown office by a man who had powerful city hall connections. The list:

$5 Look

$5—The rock-bottom bargain rate, for a five minute look at the question and answer book. If you didn't think you could pass the examination after one look, you could come back and buy another $5 worth.

$250—For a complete copy of the questions and answers, to be memorized before the applicant took the civil service test.

$500—The deluxe offer, assuring that the buyer was placed high on

LaFollette Group Starts Inquiry

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Robert Wohlforth, secretary of the Lafollette senate civil liberties committee, said today "three or four dozen" subpenas have been served on employers and groups of employers in the San Francisco bay area and Northern California in connection with an inquiry of asserted anti-labor activities.

Persons under subpena, Wohlforth said, are connected with the following groups: Associated Farmers of the San Joaquin Valley, Associated Farmers of the Pacific Employers committee of 43, Producers' and Growers' Association, California Packing Corporation and Morpak Corporation.

The subpenas instructed them to appear Thursday, Nov. 10, at the old U. S. mint building here with all their records concerned with labor disputes and "tactics used to combat organized labor."

Dies Subpenas Homer Martin

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3. — (UP)—Chairman Dies, D., Tex., of the house committee investigating un-American activities today subpenaed President Homer Martin of the United Automobile Workers' Union to testify concerning sit down strikes in the motor industry. Martin will testify Wednesday.

Martin who is in Washington for a meeting of the executive council of his union, failed to respond to an earlier subpena.

Dies complained that he was having difficulty in persuading witnesses, especially those connected with the government and labor organizations to appear.

Dies attributed his difficulties with witnesses to President Roosevelt's rebuke of the committee.

HOPKINS JOINS FARLEY; ASKS SUPPORT FOR OLSON, DOWNEY

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Federal Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins today joined President Roosevelt and Democratic Chairman James Farley with endorsement of California's Democratic ticket in next Tuesday's election.

Gov. Frank F. Merriam, seeking reelection on the Republican platform, somewhat counteracted Hopkins in a major address attacking the "misrepresentations and downright untruths" of his opponent, Culbert L. Olson.

Blanket Blessing

Hopkins, visiting in Los Angeles, made a blanket endorsement of Olson, Sheridan Downey and Ellis Patterson, Democratic nominees for governor, senator and lieutenant governor, on the "clear-cut party issue that Democrats believe the government properly may intervene to improve the economic system, while Republicans do not."

The relief executive assailed the Republicans as believing "government has no power or place in the economic scheme to influence favorably a way of life."

Urges Confidence

Merriam's Southern California campaign speeded up as he urged "confidence in government as the foundation stone of stability, progress and prosperity." The governor offered his record as the major reason for his reelection

PEDESTRIAN VICTIM OF COUNTY TRAFFIC

E. E. Gould, 75, Townsend leader of 468 South Olive street, Orange, was delivering pamphlets urging support of Dr. Francis Townsend's old age pension plan yesterday at 11:30 a. m. on North Main street when fatally injured by an automobile, officials reported.

Mr. Gould's death in county hospital yesterday afternoon brought the total of county traffic fatalities for the year to 61. At the same time last year, 72 persons had died in county traffic.

Mr. Gould, according to officials, had parked his car on the west side of Main about 100 feet south of Palmyra avenue, crossed the street and delivered pamphlets at a service station on the southeast corner of Main and Palmyra and at Judd Carriker's motorcycle shop on the northeast corner. He was walking back to his car when a car driven by C. M. Merrick, 28, recreational supervisor at the Orange Y. M. C. A., 176 North Pixley, Orange, struck him. He never regained conciousness, died of a skull fracture.

An inquest for Mr. Gould will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in the Coffey funeral chapel, Orange, Coroner Earl Abbey announced. Mr. Gould, native of Wilson, N. Y., came to Orange in 1926 from LaClede, Mo. He was a member of I. O. O. F. lodge in LaClede for 50 years; member of the Orange Methodist church and Orange Ruby Rebekah lodge.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Abbie M. Gould, Orange; a daughter, Mrs. Loys Gould Vaughn, Honolulu, former supervisor of music in Santa Ana schools; one sister, Mrs. Agnes Van Fleet, and one niece, Mrs. Mabel Baxter, both of Hillsdale, Mich. Funeral arrangements will be in charge of the Coffey chapel. Mrs. Vaughn visited her parents here during the past summer.

Six Murphys Win Scholarships

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 4. — (UP)—Six Harvard students named Murphy today received annual scholarships, totaling $2400, donated in 1916 by William Stanislaus Murphy for the "collegiate education of men of the name of Murphy."

Murphy, class of 1885, stipulated that the awards go only to students of high scholastic standing. John C. Murphy, Benicia, Calif., was one of the recipients,

Japanese In New Demand

TOKYO, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Prince Fumimaro Konoye, the premier, in a speech broadcast to the nation today demanded a world new deal to establish peace on the principle of a fair balance of power.

Interpreting and amplifying a previous government statement of Chinese policy, Prince Konoye announced that if necessary Japan would extend its conquest to southeastern and northwestern China to crush resistance and prepare the way for far eastern stability.

Urges Fair Balance

He reaffirmed the government's intention to insist on a tripartite relationship of "mutual aid and coordination between Japan and Manchukuo and China in the political, economic, cultural and other fields," as the government statement had put it, and went on:

"The world now needs establishment of peace on a fair balance of power."

Various principles in the past had forced maintenance of the status quo in an unbalanced state, he said.

"That international treaties like the covenant of the League of Nations have lost their prestige, is fundamentally due to this irrationality.

Only Method

"Without making international justice a written code, a new peace

FAN DANCER GLUM; FACES JAIL TERM

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 3.—(UP)—A mighty glum looking Sally Rand today waited for a jury of nine middle-aged women and three gray-haired men to decide whether she will be allowed to swish her fans and toss her bubbles at the Biltmore hotel tonight, or go to jail for possibly 360 days on two counts of battery.

The case went to the jury after Judge C. A. Ballreich explained what "battery" is under the law. He said it was the "unlawful touching of the person or persons's clothing, no matter how slight it is. The right of privacy does not exist for the person who has dedicated her life to the public."

In Miss Rand's case, she may protest her picture being taken, but she may not use force, Judge Ballreich said.

Miss Rand is charged with clawing and scratching Ray Stanford and biting his companion, Hazel Drain, after Stanford took candid camera shots of Miss Rand from the front row of a local theater several months ago.

Miss Rand was dressed in a black hat and veil and wore a grey suit with fur collar for today's court appearance.

While the jury deliberated, Miss Rand told court attaches she would invite the jury to her opening tonight at the Biltmore hotel if they acquitted her.

"But," Miss Rand said, sadly, "if they find me guilty, I'll have to pack up my clothes and get ready for a long stay as the guest of the state of California."

In his closing arguments to the jury, David Hoffman, dapper little prosecutor, said:

"Is it a crime to take a picture? This boy (Stanford) probably prized those pictures. He wanted a photograph of Miss Rand so he could show it to his friends, and the defense insinuates that he took these pictures for some vulgar reason. It isn't right."

SCORES ESCAPE AS BLAST WRECKS SHIP

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 3.—(UP)—The Hamburg-American steamer Vancouver, with 17 passengers and 60 crew aboard, went aground in Oakland estuary today, then was wrecked by a terrific internal explosion.

Captain W. Moessinger, the craft's commander, signaled from his bridge that there were no casualties.

Force of the blast, which occurred either in the engine or boiler room, sent several persons crashing to the main deck where they lay stunned several minutes before regaining their feet.

Cause of the explosion was undetermined.

The coast guard said first advices indicated at least two men were injured and that there might be possible fatalities.

Captain Moessinger, however, reported "no one hurt."

ATTACK ON SHERIFF TOLD

Testimony that J. Malcolm Green, publisher of a Santa Ana weekly newspaper, now accused of complicity in a political pamphlet that attacked Jesse L. Elliott, candidate for sheriff; Supervisor N. E. West, and others, actually was especially supporting both Elliott and West at the primary, was given by Tom Danson, former radio news announcer, and ex-employe of Green, at today's hearing of the pamphlet conspiracy case.

Danson further testified that Supervisor West came to the office of the Santa Ana Bee, where Danson was employed before the primary election, and that West there dictated a news story attacking Sheriff Logan Jackson in connection with the fee suit filed by county supervisors against the sheriff.

Lists Favorites

A copy of Green's newspaper, dated August 30, the day of the primary election, was inspected in the courtroom today. It bore a "ticket" of candidates endorsed by Green, this ticket including Elliott for sheriff and West for supervisor.

Danson testified that Green later switched from Elliott to Jackson, but this was stricken from the record on objection of Green's attorneys.

Elliott and West, said Danson, were the only county candidates Green mentioned to him as being supported by Green, the other candidate being Nolan of Los Angeles, running for the state board of equalization. Supervisor West was a frequent visitor at the Bee office, said Danson.

Tells of Claims

Danson said that Green continually talked politics, and told Danson he was going to get hold of certain candidates and put them in office, that he was going to "set fire," and would try to make sensational news if nothing happened.

Green also claimed that four of the five Santa Ana city councilmen "were on his side," said Danson.

Danson said that Green, who started his paper during the campaign, equipped his office with a linotype, but had his presswork done elsewhere, some of it in Santa Ana, some in Costa Mesa, and some in Los Angeles. It was in Los Angeles that the pamphlet, "Fools Rush In," was printed.

Printed in L. A.

On cross examination Danson denied that he knew Green took his paper to the Commercial News Press, in Los Angeles. The pamphlet was printed at the Independent Press Room.

Green paid Danson with a $50 bill, and displayed a sizeable roll of bills, which had at least one other $50 and one $100 bill. The pamphlet was paid for in bills of large denomination, other witnesses had testified.

On cross-examination by W. M. Burke, counsel for Green, Danson admitted that he owed Green money for an advertising bill collected from Coroner Earl Abbey, and that he had been called into the district attorney's office about it, but denied that he bore any animus toward Green.

"Didn't Know Sleeper"

Danson also referred to "my

Texas Police Nab Bandit Suspects

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Two men and a woman, captured by a West Texas posse and charged with armed robbery, were identified today as relatives or followers of the old Hamilton and Barrow brothers' gang—the worst of the southwest's modern outlaws.

Authorities believed that the captures had ended a new alliance of the old gang's survivors at its outset.

The prisoners were Joe Carson, 24, brother-in-law of the late Raymond Hamilton; Ollie Miner Smith, a police character and once a follower of the Hamilton-Barrow gang, and a 21-year-old woman believed to be Marie Barrow Francis, sister of the late Clyde and Buck Barrow.

Farley Attacks Hoover Policy

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 3. — (UP)—James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, defended the New Deal's spending program in a speech here last night and termed former President Herbert Hoover a "prophet of disaster."

"Mr. Hoover, Farley said, "sees a ghost behind every tree and he plants a straw-man in every cornfield. He sees a great decline in public morals since the public saw fit to retire him to private life."

Farley spoke from the same platform from which Mr. Hoover two weeks ago assailed the administration.

PLAN CONCERT FOR NOV. 15TH

Don't Be Fooled About Constipation!

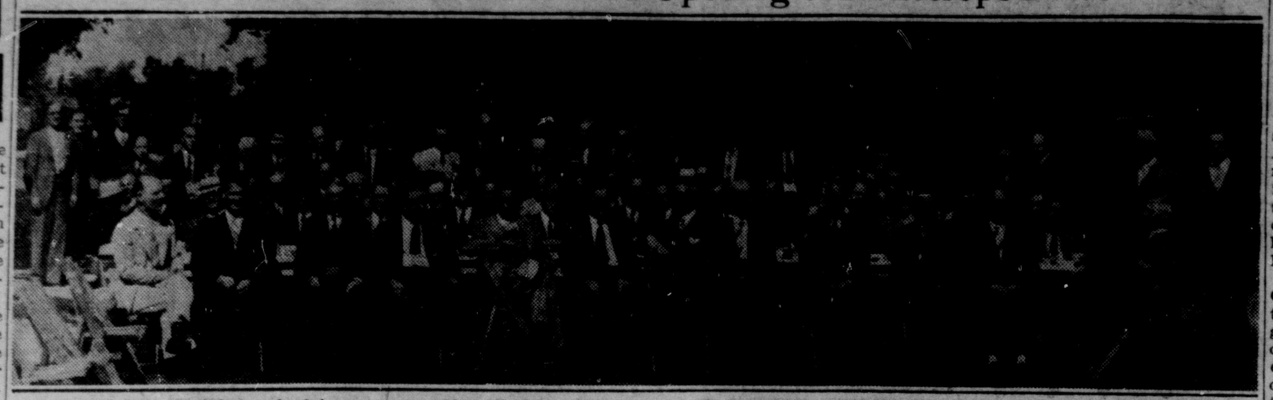

Many people, when constipation hits them, just reach for the medicine shelf, dose up with a physic, and try to forget it—till the trouble comes back. And come back it usually does—more and more often—till you get at its cause.

If you eat what most people do—just bread, meat, potatoes—chances are just this fact causes your trouble: lack of "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and aids elimination.

If that's the reason for your trouble, what you need is a good dish of crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B$_1$.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regulars." Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Assembled Kiwanians Attend Opening of Heliotrope Drive

Allison C. Honer, local contractor whose tract Floral Park is opened by the new thoroughfare that will add a mile of street frontage to the city, is shown seated in the first row at the extreme left.

Maurice Enderle, president of Kiwanis and assistant county assessor, is standing at the extreme left. Included in the ceremonies was the presentation of a deed to the street to Mayor Fred C. Rowland by Honer and cutting of a barrier ribbon by Honer's six-year-old daughter, Helen Jeanne.

General Hugh S.

JOHNSON SAYS

WASHINGTON, D. C. — In all plans to mobilize industry for war production, the War Department naturally and properly looks to our experience in the World War. For years the reports of that great effort have been studied by the War College, the War Department Industrial College and the General Staff.

This is as it should be. But there are more than a few veterans of that effort who might put some vitality into those dry old records. This year the War Industries Board will celebrate its twentyieth birthday. Apparently more than one hundred of those principal leaders are living with, at least, enough pep to attend.

Are they ever consulted in forming our vast new economic defensive plans? Practically not at all or, if they are, it is with an attitude that they are a bunch of old fogies to whom it is graciously permitted to blow off a little rapidly cooling steam.

The Army Industrial College is a get-rich-quick course in which taught, in a few months, all about running the industries of this country by miliary instructors, most of whom never even ran a peanut stand. I am not knocking its purpose or its personnel in the least. It is highly necessary to have some officers in the Army who have at least a bowing acquaintance with our economic and industrial problems. The average officer lives a life as remote from our day-to-day business struggle as a cloistered monk. The economic side is getting to be the principal side of modern war. This realistic schooling of the war experts in the very essence of war is all to the good.

But business is a profession, like surgery or law. A man isn't fit to lead in it until he has been knocked all over the lot by years in the college of kicks in the pants. These eager, young learners are no more equipped to do this leading than I am to perform a surgical operation on the human heart.

I think most of them understand this. But there is now an Assistant Secretary of War who is an incarnate dynamo—and a most ambitious politician. He wants to be Secretary of War and he doesn't give a hoot for any consideration of loyalty to his boss, Harry Woodring, or to any development of industrial mobilization, no matter how necessary or advisable, which does not advance that ambition.

Under the Defense Act, industrial mobilization is his baby and he isn't going to have any civilian industrial veterans of the World war butting in who are not apt to be his economic stooges from the outset. Until he gets such specimens, industrialization is to be done and planned by men in uniform.

Recent voluminous War Department publicity handouts about present preparedness for economic war are largely pure bunk.

Woodrow Wilson and Newton Baker, for the first time, abolished politics from Army assignments and deliberation. It did more for the efficiency and morals of the Army than anything that has happened. Recently the War Department has been Corcoranized, politicalized and is beginning to be Third New Dealized and demoralized.

This kind of stuff seeps out through the whole corps of officers. It is bad from any angle. With the world in its present chaos, this is a problem of first magnitude—to abolish intrigue from the Army and to prepare our industry to serve our military needs. It isn't being solved. Some of the amateur industrial and organizational plans are positively abortive, utterly inconsistent with the present organization of both industry and government. This is no time for political monkey-business in national defense. This kind of thing could prove fatal. Mr. Roosevelt is a great and experienced naval administrator. Naval principles apply equally in the Army. Here is a good place for a Presidential housecleaning.

S. A. Women Quarrel Over 'Community Bath'

It must have been "too, too" something or other for two Santa Ana women who share a community bath and stairway, according to reports to police. One of the pair called officers to tell them of an argument over which one had cleaned the bath and stairway last.

According to report of Assistant Chief Harry Fink and Police Matron Bertha Anderson, who investigated, each of the neighbor women called the other "liar," whereupon one said she would throw the other downstairs. Police advised them to try to get along without quarreling.

CHURCH RALLY SET FOR SUNDAY

Young people from all parts of Orange county will assemble at the First Christian church in Santa Ana next Sunday afternoon for a great rally sponsored by the Orange County Christian Endeavor Union, from 5 to 6 p. m. The program will be built around the theme "Without Benefit of Arms."

"It is not a disarmament appeal, however," stated Lola Pride, county C. E. president. "It is rather a call for young people to serve their country by fighting crime, disease, poverty and various 'isms' that threaten the country."

G-Man To Speak

Lieut. Chester Bonner, G-man attached to the narcotic squad, and present head of a school for boys at Sherman Oaks, will speak on the general theme "Without Benefit of Arms," and that theme will be carried out in a short play which will climax the session.

Facts Only-

Fact No. 1—The juvenile home is conducted, not by the judge of the juvenile court, but by the county juvenile committee of seven prominent men and women, serving without pay.

Fact. No. 2—These seven men and women: Mrs. C. C. Cravath, of Laguna Beach; Mrs. R. W. Jones, of El Modena; Mrs. R. W. Marvin, of Anaheim; S. C. Hartranft, of Anaheim; Albert Sitton, of Fullerton; T. B. Talbert, of Huntington Beach; and Rolla R. Hays, of Santa Ana and Newport Beach, are not the kind of people who mistreat and torture children.

Fact No. 3—The board of county supervisors has sole power of providing funds for juvenile home. No one else has legal authority for altering the buildings of juvenile home. Funds for needed improvements have been promised.

Fact No. 4—There are however, no "cells" in juvenile home, nor are children housed in the basement there. Children at juvenile home are well fed, comfortably housed, and kindly treated,

Fact No. 5—Only 3.05 per cent of the 2248 children who have been in juvenile court during the last five years were sent to the state institution at Ione, the total being 69, instead of the 127 claimed by critics.

Fact. No. 6—Superintendent O. H. Close, of the institution at Ione, writes that one of the boys sent there from Orange County should not have been sent. Also that the record of Orange County's juvenile court compares favorably with that of other counties of nearly equal population.

Fact No. 7—Charges that constitutional rights of defendants are denied in juvenile court that the parents or friends of children are refused the right to testify, are at once serious and ridiculous. They probably belong before the grand jury, and have been placed there—not however, by those making the charges, but by Judge Ames himself,

Fact No. 8—Charges recently made against the juvenile home before the American Legion council and over the radio, including so-called affidavits mentioned, were laid before last year's grand jury, which made thorough investigation, and reported that the juvenile home was well-managed, its only lack being funds for needed building improvements.

Fact. No. 9—From the foregoing facts, and considering that the present attack was delayed until just before election, and further considering that, if sincere, the charges should have been laid before the judge of juvenile court or the present grand jury, instead of before the voters, there can be no doubt that the whole affair is politically inspired, to aid a candidate for the office of superior court judge, opposing Judge Ames.

Fact. No. 10—Anyone promising "juvenile reform" knows, or should know, that, even if elected, no candidate can be sure of becoming judge of juvenile court. Such appointment is made each year by the three judges of the superior court, who select one of their number.

Fact. No. 11—These judges are in position to discover and correct any evil in conduct of juvenile court.

Fact No. 12—A most significant fact—For many years the judges have continued to entrust the responsible work of juvenile court to the hands of Judge H. G. Ames.

P.-T. A. STAGES PLAYS, PLAN TO ADD CULTURE AND EDUCATION

"We are presenting a series of three plays by the Clare Tree Major company solely in the interests of education and culture and not as a promotional scheme," Mrs. Robert Kroff, of Tustin, president of the Fourth District P.-T. A., said today.

First in the series will be Sir James M. Barrie's immortal children's fantasy, "Peter Pan" that will be shown at Anaheim high school at 3 p.m. November 9, Mrs. Korff said.

According to advance information from the Clare Tree Major company, "Peter Pan" was first produced in 1904, when Charles Frohman, the distinguished American producer, presented it in London. Two years later he brought it to America.

Since that time the part of Peter has been played by actresses including the famous Maude Adams. Now, for the first time in history, the part will be played by a boy, Leslie Gorall, who recently played with Burgess Meredith in "High Tor," as a young tough.

The other plays in the series will be presented in the Santa Ana high school auditorium later in the season, Mrs. Korff said today. Season tickets for all three performances are now being sold at reduced rates. Single admissions may be secured at the door the night of the play.

The Fourth District of the Parent-Teacher association is sponsoring all three of the productions.

SUICIDE FAILS; HE LANDS IN HOSPITAL

W. F. Gebhart, 33, Los Angeles, who slashed his throat with a safety razor blade, then wandered about the hills near Santa Marguerita ranch, northeast of San Clemente until last night, was charged with vagrancy and taken to county hospital for mental observation, police reported.

They quoted Gebhart as saying he had attempted suicide, that he also had attempted suicide in 1934 while serving in the United States marine corps. Immigration Officer Brown found Gebhart, turned him over to Deputy Sheriffs Tom Murphine and A. W. Rodabaugh. Before being taken to the hospital, Gebhart was given first aid by Dr. L. F. Laverty of San Clemente. Gebhart said he was in San Diego jail a week ago on a vagrancy charge. Sheriff's officers will investigate his police record.

Gebhart is despondent, officers said.

Hopkins Urges Bourbon Support and said public officials "should be chosen by other means than mendacity, political trickery and political hypocrisy."

Olson, Patterson and Downey also were in the bay area, with a noon luncheon and evening rally scheduled. It was anticipated that George Creel, Democratic leader and close friend of the President, would make publi tonight the "humdinger" of a letter from Roosevelt endorsing the Democratic slate. Earlier in the week, the President's letter to Congressman Jerry Voorhis, endorsing Downey, was made public. Additionally, the President was expected to touch on California politics in his national broadcast tomorrow night.

Olson Favored

There was some variance in betting odds, with Patterson quoted at 10 to 7 over Dr. Walter Scott Franklin and other money brokers reporting odds even. Olson was quoted at two to one to defeat Merriam but even money that he would win by 110,000 votes. Downey was two to one over Bancroft and the same odds held for the defeat of No. 25, the pension plan, and carrying of No. 1, the labor regulation proposal.

Rolland Vandegrift, former state director of finance, figured twice in political news. Endorsing Merriam, he said voters must choose between "radicalism and safe and sane government." Secon , he headed a committee protesting to Senator Hiram Johnson that Senate franking privileges were being abused by Senator Henrik Shipstead, F-L, Minn., in mailing free literature to California voters in behalf of the single tax, proposition No. 20.

CAMPAIGNS GET HOT THROUGHOUT NATION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(UP)—New Deal issues or pension plans dominate the most spectacular state campaigns today in the final burst of general election activity.

In such states as Ohio, New York, Michigan and Pennsylvania the New Deal issue is on top and voting Nov. 8 will be a referendum on off-year Roosevelt administration popularity.

"Funny Money"

California leads the so-called "funny money" parade with a new appeal to oldsters who are rallying to it as they did for the earlier $200-month Townsend plan. California's streamlined 1938 pension proposal is for $30-every-Thursday to every idle person over 50 years of age. Culbert Olson and Sheridan Downey, Democratic nominees for governor and senator, respectively, won in the primaries with $30-Thursday support.

But among the big industrial states of the northwest quarter of the United States surveys and polls indicate that Republicans will make congressional gains. Some Republicans believe their overall advance in membership will exceed 70 states. The least figure suggested is around 25. If it is worthwhile for Democrats to gain the governorship in California, it is vital that they stand off Republican thrusts in Ohio, New York, Michigan and Pennsylvania where state capitols now are in Democratic control.

There is no senatorial contest in Michigan. Pensions are a minor issue. Small Republican house gains at most are forecast by observers. But the New Deal is having the fight of its life there to continue Gov. Frank Murphy as governor. President Roosevelt jumped into that contest last week with a blunt charge that the house committee investigating un-American activities "permitted itself to be used in a flagrantly unfair and un-American attempt to influence an election." Mr. Roosevelt was protesting against testimony challenging Murphy's actions during sitdown strikes in Michigan automobile factories. The committee is controlled by Democrats.

The New Deal is top issue in New York and Pennsylvania. Major Republican gains in either state would severely damage the Democratic organization and materially change political prospects for 1940. Gov. George H. Earle is Democratic nominee for senator and Charles Alvin Jones is running for governor. The New Deal tide will have stopped and possibly turned if they come up losers on November 9.

Republican success in Pennsylvania would give the G.O.P. a potential 1940 Presidential candidate in Judge Arthur H. James, now running for governor. Sen. Davis is seeking re-election to his Republican seat.

New York is giving the year's big political show with a contest for governor between Republican Thomas E. Dewey, 36-year-old rackets prosecutor, and Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, drafted by Democrats for a fourth term as the man most likely to be able to stop Dewey.

Reveal Attack On Sheriff

harebrained scheme of running for county assessor," for which office he was a write-in candidate. "I didn't know Jim Sleeper then," he added.

He said Green told him he intended to investigate a report that Assessor Sleeper had assessed Sheriff Jackson only $400 on Jackson's furniture, but Danson didn't know whether that report ever was verified.

In answer to a question by Burke, Danson admitted it was nothing unusual for a newspaperman to seek a sensational story.

Danson was "nearly broke when Green gave him a job, and he was sure he saw a $100 bill in Green's bankroll, because, "When one sees a $100 bill, one remembers it."

Carl Swartz, Los Angeles taxi-driver, was the only other witness up to noon today. He testified of taking a man in his taxicab, with bundles supposedly containing pamphlets, from the Atlas Distributing company, in Los Angeles, August 19, the date the pamphlets were delivered. Swartz described the man as 42 or 43 years of age; five feet, 11 inches tall; weighing 185 to 190 pounds; dark complexion; small, tapered mustache; heavy jeweled; wearing a light colored suit and a Panama hat; and glasses with a chain over one ear Swartz inspected the court room but could identify no one there as the man, whom he had delivered with the bundles at Court and Grand streets, Los Angeles, he said.

Had An Idea

George Holden, of Anaheim, finished his testimony late yesterday, after more than a day on the stand. At one point he was asked by Defendant Charles Ott if he had any idea who wrote the pamphlet, and replied that he had. A storm of objections prevented him from going further along that line.

T. N. "Brick" Gaines, Orange county correspondent of a Los Angeles paper, from whose files three clippings on the Follette bribery case disappeared, testified that Defendant G. F. McKelvey, late in June, asked him how to gain access to the papers' files.

McKelvey sharply cross-examined him, asking Gaines if it were not true, that in appreciation of McKelvey's help with a story, he had not invited McKelvey to visit the newspaper office. Gaines didn't recall.

Japanese Make New Demands fabric must be formed which can keep peace with the progress of history, with a comprehensive viewpoint concerning all phases of human life—commerce, emigration, natural resources, culture.

"We believe that the only means of breaking through the current general crisis lies in perfecting these conditions."

Thus the government statement of last night was extended to embrace a world policy in which Japan presumably would be united firmly with the other "have not" nations, including the allies of the German - Italian - Japanese "anti-Communist" front, and at the same time would reserve for herself the future of vast China with its untold wealth, its 450,000,000 people and its 4,480,000 square miles of territory, regardless of such nations as Great Britain, France and the United States which have interests in China.

Japan Holds Key

Prince Konoye in his speech maintained a close parallel with the government statement on Chinese policy.

He started out by saying that seven great Chinese cities had fallen to Japan and that Japan held the key to the disposal of China.

"However, Japan desires the development, not the ruin cooperation with, not the conquest of China," Prince Konoye continued. "She desires to build a stabilized far east with the cooperation of the Chinese people, who have now awakened to the need for self-determination as an Oriental race.

"No country exceeds Japan in desiring the perfection of China as an independent state, and recognition of China's race passion."

He then said that Japan and Manchukuo were closely related and must work closely on their common mission toward establishment of peace and order in the far east through displaying their own individuality.

Poultry Company Asks Injunction

Orville S. Pulliam of the Orana Poultry company, today filed suit in superior court against W. C. H. Schultz and F. M. Doherty, of the Brookhurst Poultry ranch, and George Kester, their employe, asking an injunction against the defendant's business activities among Pulliam's customers, also $1500 damages, and return of $1500 in cash and equipment which Pulliam paid to Schultz last August 1, he claims, as the purchase price of the Orana poultry business.

Schultz, Pulliam alleges, agreed not to engage in the dressed poultry business in the area served by Pulliam's business until January 1, 1941, and agreed not to use the equipment in that area. He went into business with Doherty within a few weeks, and they recently enticed two employes, including Kester, from Pulliam and used them to solicit his customers, Pulliam charges.

the civil service list and in direct line for the job he wanted.

Accommodatingly, there were connections with a salary loan company from which the applicant could borrow the price of a $250 set of questions and answers by paying a $50 bonus for the loan.

Grafters Grafted

Some smart applicants repaid themselves for their $250 investment by mimeographing copies of the questions and answers and going into the selling business themselves.

Fitts said the information given his office had been thoroughly checked by his investigators. Already it has been revealed how the men desiring to get on the police or fire forces, or yearning for promotion, "paid off" by a system of red rose rendezvous, and blindfolded auto trips.

The applicants were led to believe, the investigators said, that the "pay-off was their only chance of getting jobs.

Glenn Gravatt, discharged former civil service manager, faces charges of altering civil service records. He told District Attorney Fitts that a high city official forced him to "play ball with us—or get bounced."

Nationalists Claim Victories

after day. Several severe aerial engagements were fought over the lines and the government fliers reported they had brought down one Fiat and one Messerschmidt plane yesterday.

REBEL SHELL HITS U. S. EMBASSY

MADRID, Nov. 3.—(UP)—A six inch Nationalist shell tore a three foot hole in the American embassy building last night, wrecking the bedroom normally occupied by the American ambassador and destroying valuable pictures and furniture.

A guard at the street door of the building was wounded in the head by shrapnel.

The American embassy building has been abandoned for many months by the ambassador, Claude G. Bowers, who maintains his headquarters at Hendaye on the French frontier. Other American diplomatic representatives make their headquarters at Barcelona, emergency capital of the Loyalist government. The embassy building here is occupied by the caretakers and others.

The shells last night were fired in one of the most severe Nationalist bombings of Madrid in a long time. Many shells fell in the embassy zone, which is supposed to be neutral.

Auto Production Hits New High

DETROIT, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Automobile production spurted to another new high for the year this week, and rapidly was closing the gap between 1937 and 1938 figures, Automotive News reported today.

The publication estimated the week's car and truck production at more than 83,800, compared with 74,900 last week and 88,086 in the corresponding period of a year ago.

Czechs Lose Area To Hungary

described the treaty as "a severe blow." Hungarians demonstrated in Budapest shouting: "We want Bratislava back; we want everything; we want a common frontier with Poland."

Reject Two Demands

Only two of Hungary's demands were rejected. Czechoslovakia was allowed to retain Bratislava, capital of Slovakia province and one of the most important cities in the country. Czechoslovakia also was allowed to retain the northern part of Ruthenia province.

Hungary got the capital, Uzhorod, and all other important cities, but Czechoslovakia was left with the decolate mountainous northern part. This Czech fragment will be economically dependent on the area that Hungary took, and it will be isolated from the rest of the country as the only railroad connecting it to the west is in the area ceded to Hungary.

Nevertheless, Czechoslovakia is left with a corridor between Hungary and Poland, which both those countries had insisted should go to Hungary, so they could fortify it on a north-south line against Russia.

Treaty Revised

The 75 minute session, ruled by Joachim Von Ribbentrop and Count Galeazzo Ciano, foreign ministers of Germany and Italy, revised the treaty of Trianon, which Georges Clemenceau, David Lloyd George and Woodrow Wilson had spent months to write. But none of the three powers that wrote the treaty—France, Great Britain and the United States—was even consulted about its revision.

The largest city awarded to Hungary was Kosice, which Hungarians call Kassa. It has a population of 70,000. Hungary also had claimed the city of Neutra, on the basis of a pre-war map which listed most inhabitants as Hungarians, but the arbiters permitted Czechoslovakia to retain that city.

Point to Success

A spokesman for the German foreign office, commenting on the conference, said:

"The Berlin-Rome axis has successfully arbitrated an international dispute of high importance and great complications. The axis thereby confirmed its character as a factor of peace and order, in European politics. The wrongs committed by peace treaties of 1919 created a greater center of disorders in Central Europe. This situation has been ended by impartial arbitration by the German and Italian foreign ministers after careful consultations with both parties and among themselves."

benefit of the grower.

Frank Daybell of Porterville, in outlining some of the problems facing the industry today, told the meeting that "in times of depression we make our greatest progress, and that since the problem has outgrown our methods of combatting it, we must find new methods."

He forecast a spreading organization under the banner of the new league, which would take in local committees and study groups throughout the state.

Included in problems facing the industry he said was "duplication of almost everything we work with —exchanges, ideas, marketing agencies and officials."

Too Much Waste

"We speak," he said, "too many languages. We must consider the problem of accounting methods, and work toward a uniform system. We must consider the problem of securing uniform field boxes, of cutting down waste in shipping methods, of coordinating our efforts for the common good."

He particularly stressed the importance of unified action on legislative problems now harassing the grower.

Secretary M. B. Wellington of Santa Ana opened the meeting with a 30-minute discussion of the league's aims and methods.

"Primarily," Col. Wellington said, "there is too great a spread at the present between the price of citrus fruit to the grower, and the price paid by the consumer. It is our intention to find out why, and then do something about it.

"Some of the changes we may have to make may hurt some of the members, some of our aims and ideas may conflict with those of some of our members, but still we must never let the ideal of union and united efforts escape us."

Membership blanks were distributed through the audience, calling for a fee of $5 to pay for expense of setting up study groups and inquiry committees.

Many Speakers

Others heard during the evening were:

Harry Hale, Placentia: "We're on the right track. The grower needs more money, or he won't be growing oranges much longer.

Roy Mabbe, Anaheim: "Let's double our crowd and get to work. If we don't do something soon we're a blowed up bunch of growers."

John Tuffree, Placentia: "It isn't that we have too many oranges, it's that we don't know how to sell them. Let's dig into our packing house problems."

James Tuffree, Placentia: "Politics wrecked the grange in the middle west; let's keep politics out of this. But let's stop our labor troubles. Vote for Proposition No. 1."

Other members of the audience addressed questions and comments to the chair at intervals through the evening.

SAVANT LAUDS J. C. STUDENTS

Definite assurance that junior college students are meeting the high scholastic requirements set by California colleges and universities was given here today by Miss Mary Yost, dean of women at Stanford university, who spent yesterday interviewing prospective Stanford students at Santa Ana Junior college.

"Approximately one-third of the total enrollment at Stanford consists of junior college transfers, and we find them to be among our best students," Miss Yost said. "It generally takes but one year for students to orient themselves at the university, so that jaysee people have no trouble at all in finding a place for themselves.

Ready to "Settle Down"

"Scholastically, the junior college students rank with the others and many cause us less trouble than do the regular students who spend four years on the university campus. By the time they have completed two years at jaysee they are well weeded out and anxious to settle down."

Miss Yost spoke to a large assembly of girls at the local junior college yesterday, outlining many of the items necessary to acquaint prospective students with life on a four-year college campus. One of the most popular courses at Stanford, she said, is that of "Problems of the Modern World" which seeks to adjust the student to the business world, home life and the family.

Demand For Grads

Miss Yost was accompanied here by Miss Edith Howard Smith, director of the Stanford school of nursing. Miss Smith indicated that there was a constant demand for graduates in this field, especially from communities sponsoring public health programs.

"We find that a graduate nurse who has completed the five-year program and holds a teaching credential is not having a bit of trouble getting located," Miss Smith stated. "There is a constant demand for graduates of the public school nursing program with emphasis on public health."

Victrola Pleases Hundreds at Cooking School

Hundreds of Santa Ana women were thrilled by the tone quality of the combination RCA radio and victrola shown in the picture above that was furnished for The Register-Southern Counties Gas company annual cooking school, which opened yesterday at the West Coast theatre, by the J. C. Horton Furniture company, exclusive RCA dealers in Santa Ana. In the picture above are shown Alice Armand and Janice Dawson Twentieth Century Fox players appearing currently in "Suez". Their costumes illustrate the contrast between 40 years ago and today.

PLANS TALK ON DICTATORSHIP

"Dictatorships vs. Democracies" will be the subject of a talk to be given one week from tomorrow at 8:15 p. m. in Bridges auditorium, Claremont, by Alexander Kerensky, pre-Bolshevik premier of Russia and renowned orator.

Kerensky has just returned from Europe where he experienced day by day the events through which England and France have been passing, according to announcement of Robert J. Bernard, chairman of the committee on auditorium events today. The event is a part of the annual Claremont Colleges lecture series on the Pomona college campus.

Home In Paris

Since escaping from Russia in 1918, Kerensky has lived in England, Czechoslovakia, Germany, now has his home in Paris. The year 1917 was one of meteoric rise and fall for Kerensky for he was successively minister of justice in the Provisional government, minister of war and marine, prime minister, generalissimo and dictator and chief of the Provisional Government of Five. Ironically, his insistence on democratic methods during his rule was partially responsible for the ease with which he was deposed by the Bolsheviks.

'Mystery Bird' Mystifies 'Host' At La Habra

LA HABRA, Nov. 3.—Speculation is rife today over the large maple tree in the R. E. Launer yard.

A big brown-gray bird has been making his home high up in the branches for the past two or three weeks and it is of an appearance such as no one has ever seen before. About the coloring of an old barn owl, the bird is larger and has a long head and very long straight beak. He sits on his lofty perch and watches his audience without any evidence of displeasure and in perfect silence.

May Be Lost

La Habrans have come with binoculars to get a better look at him and have searched all the books in their library to learn his identity. Some say he is a young bird of a large species and others believe him to be a migratory shore bird either lost in his flight south or too tired to continue with his pals Everybody is of the same opinion at least and that is that he doesn't belong in these parts. Launers say as long as he is so content and peace-loving he may stay at their house. He leaves for several hours during the morning and early afternoon but returns long before dark.

UNREST IN EUROPE TRACED BY SPEAKER

Dr. John C. Duvall gave the first in his series of four discussions on the European situation at the Willard auditorium last night.

His subject was "Causes of the European Unrest." Dr. Duvall showed how the three "isms," Capitalism, Imperialism and Nationalism, were responsible for conditions leading to the world war. The speaker maintained that the war failed to remove any of the causes of the war but rather intensified them. He argued that war is a symptom and the disease behind it can no more be cured by treating the symptom than scarlet fever by treating the rash which breaks out.

Frank A. Henderson, who presided, announced that next week's meeting would be a panel discussion with members of the Junior College faculty assisting Dr. Duvall in a further study of the European situation. Henderson also announced that the Adult Civic Education discussions would be held in the Little Theater at the High school, 520 West Walnut street, beginning next week.

Loveland of the Legion's civic betterment committee to represent the service group on the commission.

Loveland was chairman of the committee whose request, filed with the city council, brought about a two-months' survey of recreation matters, resulting in complete revamping of the existing set-up. Other organizations to be represented on the enlarged advisory board are the Lions club and Toastmasters' club, who have already filed requests for representation.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

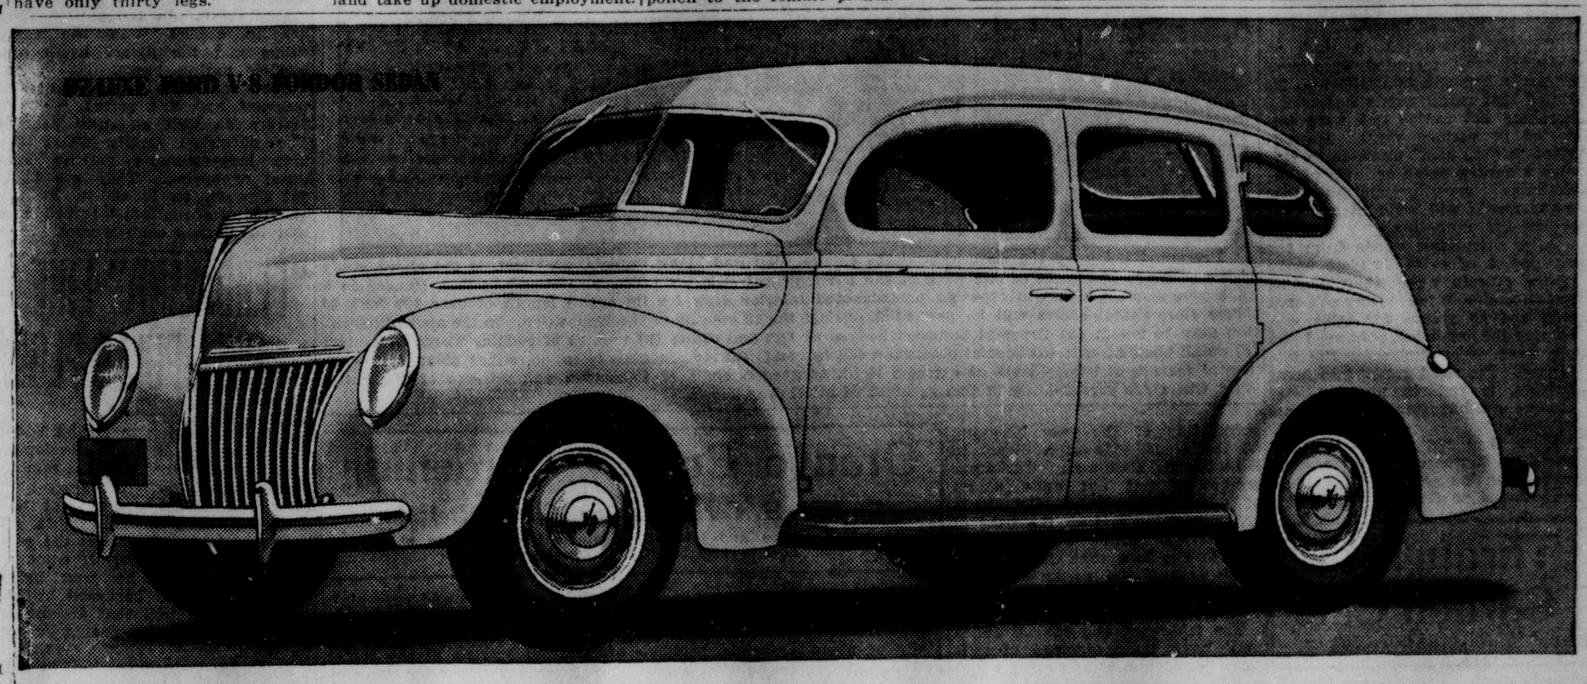

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

NEW FORD V-8 CARS for 1939

GREATER VALUE for every motorist has been built into the two new Ford V-8 cars for 1939. They further express the forward-looking policy of the Ford Motor Company—traditional Ford dependability and economy plus progressive engineering.

Each car is distinctive in design, yet each has something of the fine streamlining of the Lincoln-Zephyr—recognized style leader for the industry. Interior appointments are in keeping with outward beauty. Every detail is styled for good taste and good service.

Both are big, roomy cars, equipped with hydraulic brakes and powered with the V-8 engine that gives you so much extra smoothness. This year the quiet performance of the V-8 engine has been matched by the new quiet built into every part of the car.

The 1939 Ford cars bring you greater riding ease on every road. New seat construction, flexible transverse springs, and big hydraulic shock absorbers provide triple-cushioned riding comfort.

Both 1939 Ford cars are Ford-priced for greater dollar value. Both bring new meaning to the Ford phrase, "The Quality Car in the Low-price Field."

GARDEN AND HOME

MEN SPEAK AT GARDEN EVENT

Women belonging to many garden groups of Southern California heard with interest this week two talks fertilizer into the plants. Ferden clubs at the Orange Women's clubhouse. Willis Cadwallader, landscape designer of Santa Ana, spoke on "Fertilization" and C. C. Triplett, instructor in the Orange Union High school, on "Weeds."

Cadwallader stated that an important part is played in plant growth and development by three elements, namely: water, fertilization and insect control. "Water," he said, "is necessary to carry the er food, and insect control to comtizers are necessary to furnsh propbat attacks of insects and diseases. bat attacks of nsects and dseases.

"Dairy fertilizers, organic matter and peat humus bring about a friable condition of the soil and make it possible for certain bacteria to break up the chemical elements of fertilizers. These chemical eleemnts are nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash. Nitrogen is the elements of nitrogen, phosphoric acid in new growth. The phosphoric acid developes roots and stems and fruiting buds. Potash is the necessary element that makes assimilation possible."

Tells of Weeds

Triplett illustrated a talk on "Weeds" with mounted specimens of weeds comomn in California. He stated that many weeds flourishing here are not native but were imported in various ways. He advised "strong arm" methods in ridding a garden patch or lawn of undesirable growth, stating that many weeds will yield to no other means but uprooting.

After discussing weeds from the standpoint of pests Triplett spoke of the uses to which they may be put as agents in preventing soil erosion and as greens for table use naming the dandelion, pokeweed and pig weed as examples for the latter use. Pig weed growing to great heights, is rich in proteins, and become an important fodder crop, he said.

More than 100 women from all parts of Southern California were present at the session. Mrs. Florence Jones of Ontario presided.

Treasure Island Flower Garden

Presented today by the California State Commission and Mark Daniels, architect, is the above study of the proposed treatment of one wing of the Floricultural Palace on Treasure Island in 1939. Housed in a huge greenhouse which will offer an unobstructed interior view for its entire length of over 250 feet, 30 theme floricultural shows will be presented during the 10 months of the Exposition. In the above illustration may be noted: (a) Graceful boxwood hedges at left and right; (b) masses of bedding plants in center; (c) small pools at end; (d) special plants outside hedges; (e) ornamental trees on either side; (f) ornamental feature of lalique glass at extreme right. 92 garden clubs of California and growers of the entire West Coast are participating in this greatest of all flower shows.

Through the Garden Gate

With MARAH ADAMS

Two interesting yards at the rear of new homes in the north part of Santa Ana are entirely paved with colored cement, one with a pale woodland green and the other in tile red. "A lazy man's yard" one of the owners termed the smooth surfaced space at this home.

The green-paved back yard is at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Moritz, 1426 North Olive street. While the entire area in the rear of the home has been surfaced with cement, only a court 40 by 40 feet has been paved green. This space is surrounded by an attractive high-board fence which provides privacy for the family and their friends gathering for badminton, ping-pong, dancing and skating parties.

* * *

The Moritz home was completed early in August and is unique in many ways. A grill is to be built in one corner of the enclosure and a space of 30 inches has been left around the entire square where flowers have been planted. There is but one tree in the yard, a big English walnut, circled by a foot-wide ring of soil.

The cement is laid about three and a half inches thick with the color applied on the top one-half inch. The cost was $114. The Moritz kitchen is the kind of room that many housewives have dreamed about. With east and south exposures, the room is flooded with sunshine which is reflected in the yellow tile. Shelves in the cupboards below the yellow and pale green tile sink are unusual in that they pull out like drawers, thus avoiding bothersome reaching into their depths on the part of the housewife.

The other cemented yard is at the new home being built by Clyde Martin in the 2300 block North Flower street. Martin is using a surface of tile red over a three inch depth of cement. A circle has been left in the center of the irregular space for some of the rare plants the Martins grow.

The grill in one corner already is completed and has shelves of red brick. A high red brick wall encloses the entire yard with the exception of the front line fencing the street.

Martin has done rather an unusual thing in transplanting all of his shrubs and many plants from his home in Anaheim to the new home here. About 60 feet of four-year-old box hedge was so successfully moved that not a single plant died. The Martins also have transplanted their many bird of paradise plants, and one quite large tree, commonly called bird of paradise tree, a fine specimen of which may be seen in Birch Park and which greatly resembles the banana tree.

Saw what to me were the first poinsettias of the year blooming at the south side of a home. In Southern California Christmas seems to put out quite a bit of advance publicity. Cotoneaster, poinsettias and all the tribe of red-berried shrubs calling attention to the fact that Christmas is "just around the corner"—and no foolin'.

The mid-west and eastern states may have their displays of autumn leaves but what could be lovlier than the persimmons in the fall in California. It is joy to watch the green leaves turn scarlet and gold as the fruit ripens.

Persimmons were grown in southern states from early American days and were brought from England about 1649. The variety of persimmon trees grown in Southern California is the Diospyros Kaki, native of China and Japan.

A new Santa Ana home which will boast of two large and lovely persimmons trees is that of Dr. Perry Davis, the house being in the making at present in the 1400 block on West Ninth street.

Probably what is one of the finest collections of waters color paintings of native California flowers in Orange county is owned by Roch Bradshaw, 1147 South Parton street. The paintings were done by his grandmother, the late Mrs. Mary F. Bradshaw, who also was a talented painter in oils.

At one time Mrs. Bradshaw was offered $10 each for the 300 paintings by a Southern California university. One of the most interesting water colors in the collection is of mushrooms. A number of fungus growths are included in the pictures. Some of the plates show flowers as well as seeds and all are said to be botanically correct.

Planting Calendar

Flower seeds to sow: Alyssum, anemone, blazing star, brachchycome browallia, calendula, clarkia, callinsia, godetia, larkspur, linaria, linum, lupin, mignonette, nemesia, nemophila, all poppies, ranunculus, rustproof snapdragon, schizanthus, virginian stock, wild flowers. Start in flats, English daisy, pansy, snapdragon, stock, and all perennials.

Bulbs to set: Amaryllis, anemone, baby glads, calla, crocus, daffodil, freesia, hyacinth, iris, ixia, Jonquil, leucocoryne, madonna and regal lilies, narcissus, ornithoglum, ranunculus, sparaxis, tritonia, tulip, watsonia.

Vegetables: All hardy kinds, especially kale, kohlrabi, lettuce. Set our onion sets.

Large trees and shrubs are usually planted later, but any plants grown in cans or containers at the nurseries — hibiscus, oleanders, roses, gardenias—may be set out now. New borders and beds should by all means be planned now in order to get the spring flowering plants well started before fall rains.

Perennials should be divided and replanted. New seedlings, stock, snapdragons, calendulas, primroses, pansies, may be set out in October.

Orange County Gardening

By Mrs. H. Cardoza Sloan, Corona Del Mar

Being sound advice and interesting comment on what to plant and how to care for Orange county gardens.

Color In The Garden

Some gardens are planned by professionals, who through long study of plant materials, should—and sometimes do—achieve a garden completely satisfying as to form and color. Other gardens grow under the skillful hands of their owners, who give a labor of love through the years in careful choosing and changing until their gardens hold an intimate charm and beauty which is the very finest thing in a garden.

And yet other gardens, whose owners have gathered in this or that plant because it happened to take their fancy at the moment, present the restless appearance which suggest the sartorial tragedy which sometimes befalls the woman who buys bits of wearing apparel which catch her eye, and suddenly wakes up to the fact that she has accumulated an outfit of an orange gown, blue shoes, gren hat, brown coat, a red bag, and costume jewelry set with amethysts.

Well, maybe we are all too clothes conscious to do as badly as that with our wardrobes, but haven't you seen all too many gardens which showed as little evidence of careful forethought as to color harmony?

Other things enter into the success of garden planning, of course, arrangement, balance, plant form, contrasting leaf texture, and so on, but it is of color that we are thinking today.

Satisfying Scheme

Now to have a satisfying color scheme in the garden does not mean that we must confine ourselves to one color. Awhile back there was quite a rage for single color gardens, pink gardens, white gardens, more particularly blue gardens. And some people hung so tenaciously to this single color idea they would scarce permit even a white lily, say, in a blue garden. We've outgrown that now.

I think it was Miss Gertrude Jekyl who said her idea was that the blue garden should be beautiful as well as blue. And for this it needed the introduction of other colors. Today you will find garden planners using not only clumps of white lilies in a blue garden, or soft yellows and pinks, but vivid splashes of rich red—and really, nothing makes a true blue more blue than a contrast of just the right red.

If you have a catholic taste in colors, you can indulge it in your garden and have flowers of every hue, provided you group them carefully, mingling plenty of green plants with silvery foliage, and flowers of white and pale cream. The effect will be more satisfying if you group the separate colors in mass effect, and let some plants of each color blend in with the next, in an informal "drift" planting. In the end you can make a gorgeous tapestry effect in your garden, instead of the sort of spatter pattern which comes from dropping plants in hit or miss.

If you favor certain colors, you may want one of them to predominate, and thus you may have a garden where the first color impression is blue, or yellow, or pink. But second glance shows a number of other colors complementing or contrasting with the main color, and a much more subtle picture is painted.

For Colored Borders

If you like the warm, sunny cheerfulness of yellow, for instance, your garden border may show pale yellows at either end, deeper yellows next them, and a climax of rich yellow and orange in the middle of the border. With the pale yellows you might use pale lavender, and a little deep purple, a little light pink, mingling with deeper pinks and blues and rose pinks among the deeper yellows, and brown and bronzy tones with the orange and scarlets in the center.

If your favorite color is pink, there is a wide range of tones and shades of this lovely color, all the way through shell pink to deep rose pink, with luscious salmon pinks and apricot pinks. What do you see as fitting with these? White is exquisite, blues are fine, and carefully chosen yellows. Deep rosered may be used, and rich purples. The true orange and orange-scarlets are about the only things you need to leave out of a pink border.

Then if your choice is blue, again we have yellows, pinks, lavender and just the right reds. Or, judiciously, and not where they will clash with anything pink, certain orange tones go well with the blues.

Gardens For Future

One trouble with our gardening is that so often it is done—often has to be done—for almost immediate effect. The English gardens which so satisfy our ideal often represent generations of skillful gardening. Miss Jekyll's garden, in which we spent a little time last week, was achieved over a period of some 30 to 40 years, I believe, the result of a long life devoted to gardening.

How many of us expect to be enjoying our present gardens 30 years hence? While as for making a garden which will be a joy and a solace to the third and fourth generation, in our changing times and conditions, this is practically an impossibility.

And then most of us are limited also as to space. So little room—so short a time! How, then, shall we hope to bring beauty to dwell in our little garden patch?

Ah, but we may. And we can start right where we are, with just what we have. Go right out in your garden now and look it over with a critical eye. Pick out some certain thing that is good, and study how you can group around it the right plants to make a satisfying garden picture. Think about your garden, and improve it as you learn—here a little and there a little, and you will see your garden grow into more grace and beauty with each succeeding season.

TUCK BULBS IN VACANT SPOTS

Daffodils have become garden favorites. They flourish in shaded situations, coming into bloom under early spring sun before the trees have leaved out, and then the shade protecting them so that they ripen their foliage and mature their bulbs without being prematurely ripened by hot summer sun.

Another most effective practice is to tuck in bulbs in vacant spots all over the garden between other perennials so that in their season the daffodils give character to the entire garden, and then their leaves, which are unsightly and floppy during their maturing period, are concealed by the foliage of the perennials which mount above them and provide shade for the daffodils.

For this purpose the older and cheaper daffodils and narcissi are ideal and furnish as fine an effect as can be obtained by the larger flowered and much more expensive modern hybrids.

The poeticus types are favored for planting in combination with the native bluebell or mertensia, the wood phlox, phlox divaricata, and the white wood lily, tirllum grandiflorum. In the garden they are in season with the early tulips and the dwarf irises and smaller spring bulbs.

Some of them are delightfully fragrant and are prized for this feature as well as their beauty. The narcissus family offers the first long-stemmed cutting material of spring. They are ideal cut flowers, as is shown by the quantities of daffodils forced and sold by florists each winter.

"FERDINAND" LIKE BULL PULLS PLOW

A bull belonging to Daniel Yoder of La Grange, Mich., is developing qualities somewhat like the famous bull "Ferdinand" of story-book fame who did not care to fight with a matador and for bull fights but preferred to wander about the pasture smelling flowers. It came to Farmer Yoder as he was being chased about the barnyard by his prize Holstein bull that an animal with so much energy should be put to work.

So Yoder trained the bull to pull a plow with a mule team.

"After that animal chased me twice in one morning," Yoder said, "I decided he would be easier to handle if put to work."

The bull, Chieftain, now works as well as any horse or mule. Chieftan, which came from Carnation Farms at Seattle, Wash., will be 3 years old Aug. 1.

Among Chieftan's ancestors is Carnation Butter King, world champion cow. Yoder believes it is the bull's blue-blooded streak that leads him to ignore the mules outside of working hours.

"He won't even stay in the same lot with the mule when he isn't hitched up," Yoder said.

Since being broken to the plow, the bull has become so gentle that he no longer chases Yoder although he still likes to chase strangers.

A regular bridle and bit are used with blinds. The bull is guided by lines, but just to be on the safe side Yoder holds one end of a rope attached to a ring in Chieftan's nose.

FARMERS TURN TO FLOWER GROWING

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Pioneer farmers didn't have much time for flower gardens, but farmers of today, with their labor-saving machinery, are giving attention to the gentler aspects of rural life and are beautifying their home grounds. In Illinois, where a farm floral contest was conducted this year under the sponsorship of Gov. Henry Horner, 2500 farm homes were entered.

Winner in the class for owners who do all their own landscaping work was Walter Capp whose home is on Route 88, near Sterling, Ill. Shrubs and vines soften the outlines of the front porch, while a bank of blooming flowers made an inviting entrance toeh farmyard all summer. Winner of second place in this contest was C. E. Eaton, who lives near Charleston, Ill.

Another division was open to rural home-owners who have obtained help in landscaping from professionals. First place in this section was won by L. O. Napier, who lives four miles west of Marengo, Ill., on Route 20.

Judges in the contest were members of the Garden club of Illinois and of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs. Albin Gris, chief landscape engineer of the state of Illinois, reported great satisfaction with the women's institute. —Christian Science Monitor.

SERIAL STORY

MURDER TO MUSIC

BY NARD JONES

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

MYRNA DOMBEY—heroine. Wife of the sensational swing band leader.

ROBERT TAIT—hero. Newspaper photographer—detective.

ANNE LESTER—Myrna's closest friend.

DANNIE FEELEY—officer assigned to investigate Ludden Dombey's murder.

Yesterday: Tait rescues Myrna, in taking her out of her basement prison when Weeks bulks in the doorway, gun in hand.

CHAPTER XXVIII

TAIT'S first lightning thought was that Weeks must not recognize him. He could see the musician's gaunt figure plainly, framed in the doorway—but he knew that Weeks could be certain of nothing except that someone had gained entrance to Myrna's prison room.

His fingers biting deep in Myrna's shoulders, Tait pushed her toward the side of the room, and at that moment Weeks' voice roared out, "Come on . . . out here, or I'll shoot."

Almost immediately a shot crashed into the room through the open doorway, and Weeks, bewildered and blind in the darkness, followed the direction of his revolver. From the side of the room Tait rushed out. In his hands was the only weapon he had been able to discover—a chair. With all his strength he brought it down across the neck and shoulders of Weeks. Then, grasping in the dark for Myrna and finding her clutching, trembling fingers, he started for the door.

The sight of the stairway and the silence behind him were the greatest relief that Bob Tait had ever known in his lifetime. Half dragging Myrna beside him, he rushed through the dingy lobby and out into the street. The taxi was still there!

"The Claremont," Tait gasped.

HE had scarcely closed the cab door behind himself and Myrna when the gears meshed and the cab roared away. They had gone the space of six or seven blocks when he realized that he was clutching Myrna tight in his arms. Embarrassed, he relinquished his nervous hold. "Are you—are you all right?"

She nodded slowly. "Yes." She managed a smile. "I'm still scared, though."

Tait laughed in sheer relief. "That was a foolhardy thing I did back there. But I didn't want Weeks to recognize me."

"Weeks?" Myrna looked at him, puzzled. "How did you know his name?"

He told her of the advertisement in the classified column of the newspaper, and of how he had listened at Harris Rogers' door. "How did he manage to kidnap you?"

"I went for a walk," Myrna said. "There was a car at the curb and this man was in it. He pretended he was ill when I went by. I went to the car and the next thing I knew I was in that horrible room. He—the man is crazy. I was afraid to move." Myrna shuddered.

"You're all right now," Bob Tait said. "When you were in that room did you ever hear Rogers?"

Myrna shook her head. "Weeks didn't have any visitors, except Leonard Macy."

"Macy! Are you sure?"

"Yes. I heard him introduce himself."

"What did they talk about?"

"I don't know. After Macy came in and introduced himself, Weeks lowered his voice and so did Macy. I couldn't hear what they were saying."

Tait frowned. "I wonder if that fake criminologist isn't mixed up in this, and trying to palm off the blame on you?"

"What do you mean, Bob?"

Tait's arm went around her shoulders again. "Forget it. You've enough to worry about. The thing I want you to do is get back to the Claremont and show yourself to Anne. She's frantic."

"I can imagine. She warned me not to leave the place alone, but I insisted and said she was foolish."

THE cab stopped with a sudden jolt. Tait looked out to see the familiar outlines of the Claremont. "I won't go up with you, Myrna. I want to talk to Feeley. Listen, can you and Anne come to a little party I'm giving tonight at the Golden Bowl?"

"Party?" exclaimed Myrna. "I don't—"

"Well, it's a sort of a party. And it's important that you come. Will you?"

"Of course, Bob. Only—" She stopped, put a hand on his arm. "You look so tired and worried, Bob. I'm afraid I've been a frightful nuisance. After all, there's no reason why you should—"

He stopped her with a look. "We've a date, then. Only I'm asking you and Anne to meet me at the Golden Bowl. I'll have to make some arrangements. Say at 9 o'clock?"

"Nine o'clock," Myrna smiled.

Not until the doors of the Claremont had closed behind Myrna did Bob Tait give the taxi driver the signal to go on. "I want to go down to police headquarters," Tait said.

DANNIE FEELEY greeted him angrily. "Look here, Tait! Where in the devil is Myrna Dombey?"

"At the Claremont—where she lives," Tait said.

"Then you've just taken her there."

Tait flushed despite himself. "I'll have to admit that, Dannie. But anyhow she's there."

"But she wasn't. That's the point. Barkley's been here, Bob, and he's raising the works and putting a prop under them. He found out Myrna had flown the coop—and you left me all unbuttoned by not telling me. I didn't know it. Barkley said he'd been made a fool of, and now he's going to make one out of me. It might interest you to know that he's going to spring a story in the papers tomorrow. And that means Myrna Dombey's goose is cooked." The detective regarded Tait sourly. "Where was she? On a little vacation? Did you ever happen to draw her a picture of the fact that she's charged with murder?"

"She was kidnaped by George Weeks," Tait said. "I followed Weeks this afternoon—and he went to Rogers' apartment. I overheard them talking about Myrna. Weeks had her hidden at the Belvedere Hotel. I just now dropped her off at the Claremont."

Feeley's eyes widened and his ample jaw dropped slowly. "I'm giving a little party tonight," Tait went on, "and I'd like to have you come, Dannie."

"A party, is it! This mess and you're giving a party! I suppose it's in honor of Myrna going to the chair—and me losing my job!"

"I hope not, Dannie. Will you come?"

The Irishman's eyes narrowed now. "I got a hunch you mean business. Who's going to be there?"

"I'm asking Anne Lester and Myrna. Harris Rogers, Leonard Macy, Nelda Starr—and yourself."

"What about your screwy musician? Surely you're going to invite him to the party?"

"Have you forgotten, Mr. Farnsworth? He's going to be featured tonight with The Swingateers!"

VARIETY FOUND THROUGH BULBS

Some of the most beautiful of garden flowers are those grown from bulbs. The gladiolus probably is more universally planted than any other bulb. "Glads" are adaptable to practically all parts of the United States and do well in nearly all types of soil. Thrips should not deter you from planting gladiolus, for these tiny plant lice can be controlled by treating the bulb with napthalene and spraying during the growing season.

The poet's narcissus, shown above, is a very attractive species, as the leaves are slender and the flowers are gracefully borne on slender stems. It is useful in the border, but is particularly striking when allowed to naturalize in drifts at the margin of the lawn, or near a body of water.

When bulbous plants are naturalized, this should be done where the grass can be left unmown until the leaves have matured. If the leaves of narcissi and other bulbous plants are cut while green, there may be no bloom the following year.

Plants Develop Own Barbed Wire

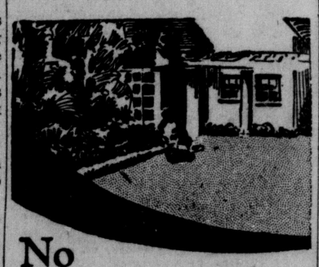

WASHINGTON. —(UP)—Certain farm plants, the Agriculture Department reported, have developed their own type of "barbed-wire entanglements" to halt attacking insects.

The department said tomato and string bean plants grow tiny hairs on their stems and leaves.

"These spines offer protection from some insects," reported K. B. McKinney, agriculture entomologist, after investigating a heavy migration of plant lice at Phoeniz, Ariz. "Spines on tomato plants secreted a gumlike substance that tangled the feet of the insects until they were unable to move, feed or multiply."

AUTO LICENSE RULING CITED

An employer who signs an application for a chauffeur's license on behalf of a minor employe may be released from responsibility in connection with the employe's driving at any time, Capt. H. C. Meehan, head of the California Highway Patrol in Orange county said today.

The statement was made in connection with a question asked by a California motorist, who signed her letter "Mrs. T.J.A." "Is such a license taken up by the state when an employer decides he or she no longer wishes to be responsible in connection with the minor's license?" she asked.

"Yes," Captain Meehan stated. "Every license which has been cancelled, suspended or revoked must be picked up. However, after proper notice is given and provisions of the law complied with in making proper application for such action, the signer is relieved of any further responsibility."

GOODWILL STORE AT PLACENTIA PRAISED IN REPORT TO BOARD

Members of the advisory board of Goodwill Industries of Orange county, today were apprised by Superintendent George F. Angne that Goodwill's newest store in the county, located at Placentia, is making a splendid showing, comparable to that of the Anaheim store, established much earlier.

Members of the Goodwill advisory board are County Treasurer T. E. Stephenson, who has been on the board since its inception, and was for many years head of the Santa Ana Red Cross chapter; Ralph C. Smedley, secretary of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A.; Dr. C. E. Holman, pastor of the First M. E. church of Santa Ana; C. M. McCulloch, of Placentia; and Charles A. Robinson, of Orange.

Averaged $300 Monthly

The Placentia store, opened last April 24, has averaged a $300 monthly income, Angne reported to the board. Total store sales in Santa Ana, Anaheim and Placentia stores for the first eight months of 1938 have increased over the corresponding period of 1937 by more than $1000, showing the steadily growing "good will" the organization is gaining from the people of the county, said Angne. Total store sales for the eight-month period were $12,210.49, as compared to $11,004.32 for the first eight months of 1937.

This increased standing, it was estimated, was due to prestige and commendation received by Goodwill Industries during the flood crisis last spring, when Goodwill halted its own collection of goods, and placed its trucks and organization at the service of the Red Cross in rescue and relief work.

Public Cooperation

According to Mrs. Emma Warren, Red Cross executive, this explains why the public is cooperating so generously with Goodwill Industries. Red Cross officials praised the organization highly for its part in the flood emergency.

Store sales are made from renovated and reconstructed articles collected by Goodwill trucks and solicitors from the community's castoffs. All income and earnings, of course, go into payroll and expenses, Goodwill providing employment for persons who are needy or physically handicapped.

NOVEMBER BEING OBSERVED AS NATIONAL PARCEL POST MONTH

Local postal authorities today were urged to participate in the silver jubilee celebration this month of National Parcel Post month, according to a letter received from James A. Farley, postmaster general, by Postmaster Frank Harwood.

"In this, the 25th, or silver, anniversary year of the establishment of the parcel post system, it is entirely fitting and appropriate that we set aside a month of special activity on the part of postmasters and all postal employes in the promotion of wider use of parcel post and its related features, the insurance and collect-on-delivery services," Farley wrote, "I have accordingly designated November as National Parcel Post month."

When parcel post was inaugurated in 1913, the miniature postal system of the United States of 1789, with less than 100 employes and receipts of not quite $26,000, had become the largest single business in the entire world, according to a report made for Postmaster Harwood by E. C. Palm, local post office employe. Since 1913, parcel post has leaped to second place in the United States postal revenues and in number of pieces handled annually, it exceeds the total mail of all classes of certain foreign countries.

Our Children
By Angelo Patri

Why did you leave my son back? How could he be left back when he has the I. Q. of a genius?"

"David has to repeat his work in mathematics. He goes ahead with his group in the other subjects. He had to repeat the work because it was plain he had not understood it."

"But he must have understood it. He had to understand it. He has the I. Q., of genius. Look on his card. You can't leave a genius back."

How simple life would be if one could go on that basis. You get a genius rating and up you go forever. But when was life simple? Never in school, you can be sure. There is nothing so complicated as the growth of a child unless it is his mental, moral and physical equipment. Nobody is wise enough to understand the being who is the sum of these elements, and there is no measure that can safely be accepted for them. Genius defies all measures, and so does imbecility.

The tests that give the I. Q. cannot be a final measure of a child's ability. It should never be the sole factor in making a decision about a child because it reflects the condition of the child's mind and body only of those matters it touched upon, and only at that time in his growth. There were so many matters untouched by the tests that the result cannot be anything like a sentence pronounced by a learned judge. But some folk seem to think they are just that, a final decree from the source of all wisdom, the educational tester.

The purpose of a child, his will, his family background, his attitude his future growth are not shown in the usual I. Q. How could they be? Will and purpose, all-powerful forces in the mental life of a child cannot be tested so as to give a result that can be taken as fixed and certain and unchanging. Attitudes change with the environment, and that changes as the child moves. Future growth is a sealed secret. But the future of a child is going to be modified, changed, set by these unmeasurable questions.

Is an I. Q. no good for purposes of measurement? Yes, just as other ratings are useful, it is useful. But I would just as soon accept the statement of an able teacher on the abilities of a pupil as to take the I. Q. The experienced and able teacher knows what the tester and the test can not know, the expression of the total child, mind as shown in purpose, will, attitudes and abilities.

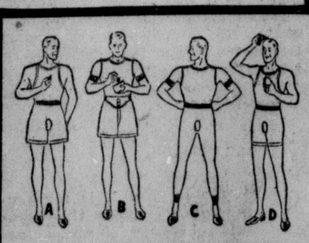

I. Q.'s change with the changing circumstances of the child, with his growth, with the development of his powers, and also with the check of those expressions. It is possible for a child to get a high I. Q., at one period of his life and a lower one later, and the other way about. One uses these ratings judiciously, never with stern finality.

One point we must make clear and sure: It is rarely possible for a child, whose early I. Q., showed a decided deficiency, to rise beyond the class termed sub-normal. It has happened, but so rarely as to make it an exception that throws doubt on the accuracy of the first test. A mental defective is not normal, and cannot be, but often he can be trained to some useful service which makes him happy. Even here, one waits for the decision of time, and the report of the teachers who have tried to overcome the deficiency. An I. Q., is a challenge, never a sentence pronounced upon a child.

COST OF WAR SCARE

Europe avoided war, but not the costs of war.

Some idea of the expense of playing with military adventures is given by these estimates of the cost to Britain of the scare.

British authorities estimate losses in trade and revenue during the period at $200,000,000. Cost of military and naval mobilization was not less than $70,000,000. About 42,000,000 gas masks were distributed free at a half-crown each, roughly $25,000,000 more. At least $15,000,000 was spent for sand-bags, and not less than $5,000,000 in preparations to evacuate school children from congested areas.

All that is well over $300,000,000. In addition hundreds of shops closed in a business slump the like of which has not been seen since 1914. Next year this loss of business will be reflected in the budget figures and the government's income. Countless personal losses add to the toll of the war that was not a war.

Now add to this a similar cost to France and Germany, and lesser losses to other countries involved. And you can guess, this being the cost of a mere scare, the price of the next war.

PROPOSITION NO. 1

The essence of Proposition No. 1 is to define what peaceful picketing is. The opponents of the amendment have a lot to say about the violation of free speech. They are not at all interested in the importance of the man having a right to work without being coerced to contribute to things in which he does not believe, and free speech, without the right to execute your ideas without paying tribute, is of little value.

And there is no interference in free speech in this amendment, as the opponents contend. It only prevents a large number of people from assembling with the motive of intimidation and coercion. There is nothing in the amendment that prevents any man from talking and explaining to those who want to listen but it does prevent people from annoying, disturbing and intimidating people who are not interested in what the pickets have to say. This is not in any way interfering with free speech.

If the unions only knew it, Proposition No. 1, is the very thing that will preserve unionism. If they are permitted to go unhampered and force people to contribute to a fund that is secret and can be used to hire "goon squads," to intimidate, coerce and kill, public opinion eventually will come to such a point that drastic laws will be enacted to restrict any combinations for restraint of trade.

The amendment attempts to eliminate coercion and approaches the very principle of liberty that is embodied in Christian philosophy.

LET'S HAVE CAPABLE DRIVERS

No man is allowed to operate a railroad locomotive —though it runs on rails along a predetermined track, with every conceivable safety device to prevent accidents—without long and rigorous training, and periodic examinations for health and capability.

No man can command a ship—though it plies oceans and waterways where the chance of collision with another vessel is microscopically small—without similar training and examinations to determine fitness and ability.

No man can fly an airplane—though its "highway" is the empty air—without providing absolute proof of his competence.

Yet any man can operate an automobile down crowded streets and highways, where the margin between safe passage and possible serious accident is a matter of inches, no matter how ill-fitted he is to drive safely.

That fact largely explains our gigantic motor vehicle accident toll. In some states no examination of any kind is required to obtain a driving license. In others not even a license is needed—the most ignorant and incompetent can get behind the wheel and roar away, endangering everyone in his path. And in most of those states where drivers' licensing systems have been established, the law is usually inadequate and prevents only the most obviously incompetent from endangering the public safety.

Physical infirmities, bad vision, defective hearing, and, most important of all, psychological handicaps that make safe driving impossible—these are found in literally millions of people who today are operating steel juggernauts capable of hundred-mile-an-hour speeds. We'll never go far toward solving the accident problem until every state takes the steps necessary to making certain that no person is given a license without providing proof of reasonable capability and a thorough knowledge of traffic regulations. We've let the incapable drive as they pleased, and they've made our highways a shambles.

LITTLE MAN, WHAT NOW?
(Daily Oklahoman)

The liberal federal tax-eaters, having perforated the wealthier folk from every angle, are now circling hungrily around the man of small income, to see just where they can plunge the liberal trocar, with the purpose of getting all possible blood out of him.

Senator LaFollette, the liberal Wisconsin statesman, is especially eager to begin working on the little man. He wants to cut personal exemptions from $1,000 to $800 for single men and from $2,500 to $2,000 for married men. Other devices are being considered. By such means he thinks it will be possible to squeeze $100,000,000 more a year out of federal income tax payers than at present.

Of course this won't go very far toward squaring up an annual liberal deficit of from three to four billion, but Senator LaFollette, being liberal with other people's money, will probably think of other ways of spending it, anyhow, so that part of the liberal problem is immaterial.

The little man is already being socked plenty by liberal invisible taxes, which amount to about one-fifth of every dollar he earns, but liberal statesmen think he can stand more gigging, hence their eagerness to start the liberal operation.

It has been said by those who figure out such statistics that if the United States were to pay as it goes, our taxes would now be the highest in the world, which makes it rather cold comfort to remind ourselves that taxes in England are now higher than they ostensibly are in the United States.

True to the old saying, there is one thing besides death that's sure, and that's liberal taxes. Little man (and that means most of us), you'll pay until it hurts.

"STEEL EARNINGS"
(New York Times)

The quarterly earnings of the United States Steel Corporation have so long been accepted as reflecting the status of the steel industry and with it the trend of general trade that Tuesday's statement for the third quarter of 1938 will to many readers be disappointing. As compared with the second quarter, the country's steel production rose from an average of 30.76 per cent of capacity to 40.79, and in the third quarter there was a steady advance to 46.28 in September. Yet, after depreciation charges, the Steel Corporation did not in the three past months earn interest on its bonds. The loss from operation, in advance of fixed charges, was $385,388 in the September quarter, as against $575,190 in the three months ending with June—in which month production of steel was smallest of the year.

IS COMPETITION THE LAW OF THE JUNGLE OR THE PHILOSOPHY OF CHRISTIANITY?

Nowadays, when one gets into a discussion with a new dealer or someone who believes he understands the philosophy of Christianity and does not, when the question of the competitive system and relief is brought up and a contention is made that the competitive system is best and relief should be voluntary instead of by the coercion of the state, these new dealers invariably contend that this is the law of the jungle; that we should have passed this stage; that slow men should no more be obliged to work at the same rate per unit of production as the rapid workers. They contend that this is a land of plenty and to insist that a slow worker should be paid at the same rate as the rapid worker is reverting to the law of the beasts. Is this contention true?

Other students contend the real philosophy of Christianity is that every man should live by the sweat of his brow and all should be paid at the same rate per unit of production and that any additional assistance a worker receives above what he produces, must be voluntarily given; that this is the real philosophy of Christianity because it has less coercion connected with it than the philosophy that would compel those to contribute to the inefficient when they preferred to contribute in some other manner so that more individuals are benefited. These interpreters of the philosophy of Christianity believe that the principle of majority rule coercing the minority to follow the will of the majority is not the real philosophy of Christianity and true Democracy. They contend that the majority rule in coercing assistance is in reality the true law of the jungle; that it is going back to force rather than voluntary action; that the very essence of Christianity is a gradual recognition of the rights of every individual to make his own decisions without coercion. And for the state to compel people to contribute in a way the majority believe does more harm than good and is going back to the jungles; it is in reality the same as the Christians used to do—force Christianity upon the individual. Now the state is trying to force the ideas of the state on the minority. While the real philosophy of Christianity would be a gradual method of educating the individual on the importance of becoming a steward of his talents. Rewarding him with happiness for being a steward and punishing him for his selfishness.

So when some emotional theorist contends that competition is the law of the jungle, it might be well to remind him that the jungle is force, and competition is the antithesis of force. The philosophy of Christianity is the right of every man to make decisions as to what he prefers to try to create without coercion. For the state to coerce him because the majority has certain ideas is to go backward, as far as adopting the principles of true democracy and Christianity are concerned. It is to again approach the jungle, or the law of force, instead of receding from it.

TARIFFS AND NATURAL RESOURCES

Henry George was of the opinion that natural resources should be made as easily available to one worker as another.

It seems logical that the easier natural resources are to secure by the working people, the better off they will be in the long run. To permit natural resources to become monopolistic and difficult to get, is to put men without capital to a great disadvantage. For this reason, it would seem that if we are to have any tariffs, they should not be on articles that would tend to make natural resources more valuable in the country; they should tend to influence workers to add to the value of the natural resources by converting them into the things which people desire and, in this way, add wealth to the country.

In other words, tariffs on manufactured articles would have a tendency to cause capital to go into the manufacturing business and add wealth to the country by changing the form of natural resources to the needs of man. This would have a tendency to withdraw capital from farming and mining and lumbering and, as a result, lower the competition that creates the value of these natural resources. This would make it easier for people to secure natural resources.

On the other hand, to put a tax on natural resources that are imported, would add to the value of the natural resources in the country into which the natural resources were imported and greatly add to the wealth of the owners of natural resources.

We are not attempting to defend tariffs. We are simply pointing out that there is a difference as to the effects of different kinds of tariffs on men without capital.

TO WORK IS TO PRAY

The new Wage and Hour Law, limiting the hours that a man dare work in interstate commerce, is in reality limiting the prayers that a man dare make, if to work is to pray. And probably the best way in the world to pray is to try to work and bring about a condition that will give the greatest possible liberty and the highest standard of living to all people.

Fellow Citizens:

This is the first day of the month. Today the postmaster will hand me an envelope containing a check for $35. Some 120 thousand pensioners in California will receive similar checks. When I glance at the check as is usual, I will be thinking of the many taxpayers who contributed to this amount.

In my imagination I will see the faces of business men, farmers, mechanics, toilers of all classes, even widows washing to support orphans. I wonder how many drops of perspiration the check represents. How many aching backs, and weary brains made contributions. None of them are indebted to me. I've never given as much as I've gotten since I came to California. In my heart I am grateful to every taxpayer who contributed to the amount the check represents. It not only relieves my needs and provides comfort for me, but there are others, who are struggling to pay for homes and care for families, whose anxiety is relieved, because the state of California cares for their dad. I do not think I would want to spend $30 per week of other people's earnings. To me it is a very serious thing to eat the food paid for with the earnings of our fellow man. It is not a matter, with me, of whether or not I could cash a $30 warrant each Thursday but whether or not I could find it in my heart to spend that much, each week, of the earnings of others. It is not a question of how much a pensioner can spend, but how little he can spend and live in comfort. California has the most liberal pension of any state in the nation. It needs amending perhaps—but it should not be destroyed by a very dangerous experiment. Go to the polls on Nov. 8th and vote "no" on proposition No. 25.

BILL ARP.

Fellow citizens:—Strange things may happen in the coming election. we may reappoint a republican or Democratic governor, but tie up the state with a socialistic dictatorship of finance. The pension advocates do not understand that money in rapid circulation does not mean prosperity. If money is circulated rapidly because of confidence in the future, and the assurance that the investments will prove profitable, then prosperity is assured. But when people handle 'hot money' which becomes valueless to the pensioner within a week, then the volume of money in circulation means ultimate ruin. Fear of loss may cause a run on a bank, but the resultant mass of money which begins to circulate does not assure prosperity. Prosperity is based on confidence of profitable returns, not fear of loss. Hence, money in circulation is secondary.

Another menace we face is communism. Primarily, the movement is for the common good, but it is easy for its idealism to change into something disastrous, or ruinous to society. Present day communism means the dictatorship of labor. Its ideal is based on the false premise, that the working man is more fitted to direct the program of industry than the man in the office. We wonder who conceived the idea that a laborer was intellectually fitted to pilot the ship of, commerce and finance. Nevertheless, the program of communism is labor must control, capital must serve. Yet wherever the program has been put into effect, it has met with disaster. As a result, it resorts to armed force, marshalled by a dictator to control the situation. All who refuse to play the game as instructed, are condemned to the firing squad. But the final end is complete collapse, because a dictator never trains a successor. History proves this to be true.

We must not overlook the fact that communism is a European philosophy—not American. We are apt to forget the principles upon which this country was founded. The foundations of Americanism was laid by refugees from the laboring classes in England, who developed a philosophy of life which was not acceptable to their native land. The principles were: the sacredness of the individual, the right to worship God according to the dictates of conscience, personal responsibility, individual rights, liberty of mind, and freedom of soul, in the pursuit of happiness. It was an individualistic philosophy, an idealism which was paradoxical to regimentation or standardization. The unity of Americanism was that of mutual respect, in contrast to oppressive legalism. They were the non-conformists, who fled from a land which was attempting to unify matters of state and religion.

In the last few years, we have allowed European idealism to overshadow the spirit of true Americanism. Marixm was ideal in Germany, where men had to fight for their rights. But in America the rights of men has always been respected. That was the reason for our existence, and why we are different. Hence, there is no need for communism.

America progressed when mutual consideration and cooperation were the ideal. Certainly, we are not going to surrended our heritage to disgruntled aliens, who have not learned that America is dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Why should we fight for a right which is ours already? The present problems will be solved by mutual consideration, not by violence, or a dictatorship. In brief, fascism is the dictatorship of capital; communism is the dictatorship of labor, but AMERICANISM is the dictatorship of liberty, and mutual respect. Therefore, our problem is spiritual rather than material. The basic cause of the moral slump and national chaos is a lost vision of ideals.

Fellow Citizens:

Countless telephone calls regarding Proposition 2, to be presented to Californians on the November 8 ballot, prompts me to state a few facts regarding "The State Humane Pound Law" which is Propostion 2.

This Proposition 2 is patterned after similar ordinances now incorporated in the laws of Orange county, San Diego, Los Angeles, and San Francisco, which is to protect your pets and mine should they be picked up by an over-zealous poundmaster and sold to medical research centers for experimental purposses, and is an endeavor to make that protection state-wide.

It DOES NOT prevent vivi-section as certain articles printed recently would have us believe.

NOR IS THERE A CATCH in the act, as even members of the medical profession have been led to believe, in that the word "pound" as mentioned in the proposition would include any place where animals are kept thus preventing medical research centers from obtaining animals.

This is not true and all one has to do is to read the proposed "State Humane Pound Law" and find out for oneself.

Sec. 2, Paragraph (a) definitely and very plainly defines the word "pound" as "any place, building, structure, yard, or inclosure publicly or privately conducted where ESTRAY or UNWANTED animals are impounded, sheltered or held in custody, whether such animals have been acquired through the surrender of their owners, finders, or keepers, or taken up as a measure of humanity, public health, or nuisance abatement."

So you see the word "pound" couldn't possibly be misconstrued to mean private kennels or stores.

Proposition 2 has grown out of case after case where loved pets have been snatched by dogcatchers in their zeal to fill orders for medical centers.

We all realize the necessity of medical research and thank the good Lord for giving the knowledge of medicines to the long list of fine doctors here whose names will always be reverenced in our hearts, but as here in our community where pound animals are protected by law for the very purpose of making secure its own citizens' pets, is there any reason why a similar law cannot be made state-wide?

I'm not telling anyone how to vote, for I think most all of us have enough intelligence to decide for ourselves, but if you are in fear of dying from diabetis, poisonous gas, diphtheria, anemia or the long list of diseases within the next year if Proposition 2 is passed please phone your own physician as I have done and be told the truth.

It is true, animal research has brought solution of the cure of practically all diseases, but the passing of Proposition 2 is absolutely not going to prevent that research or kill one of us at any time. Plenty of specimens for research will be available at other places than pounds.

Let your conscience be your guide on Proposition 2, and above all READ it carefully!

Editor, Register:—Have a heart and spare your readers the anguish of being drawn into a reading of what purports to be a controversy but which, in fact, is a patient, sincerely condescending effort of a master mind to convince an insolent heckler of the established truth of certain economic principles. Dr. Walter Spahr's logic is so far over the head of Mr. George Varnum, that the latter is forced to misquote and misinterpret Dr. Spahr's text as a basis for his sarcastic retorts in order to give the "discussion" even the semblance of an argument.

Fellow Citizens:

Vote Yes on No. 1, is my recommendation. I make this terse statement because farmers are writing to me relative to a newspaper report of the Associated Chambers of Commerce meeting, that quoted me as opposing No. 1. I was misquoted as I emphatically recommend a yes vote on No. 1 as every one of my public utterances has indicated.

It is imperative that this measure be made a law to control terrorism by racketeers and revolutionists. Prop. No. one is a measure to be proud of, because it champions American fundamentals, such as freedom of speech and individual freedom of action.

The opponents of this measure, not having been able to attack it on its merits, have resorted to misrepresentation instead. The most vicious of which is crying the abridgement of free speech, and which is being led by certain intelligentsia. They do this by quoting only a part of section 8 and omitting the rest, as was recently done over the radio by a Stanford professor. Like the libel laws this act affects only those who would abuse free speech. In this instance by using objectionable language with the intent to intimidate or coerce others to prevent them from exercising their constituted rights of freedom, as any one can understands who reads Section 8 in its entirety.

YOUR YOU AND Nation's Affairs

Maine: Now Massachusetts

By WALTER E. SPAHR
Professor of Economics, New York University

Not long ago Maine Republicans nominated three Townsendites for Congress. Shortly after this a special news item came out of Boston stating that: "A coalition of Townsend plan advocates and Republicans was effected here today as the Republican State convention placed in its platform a plank pledging the State's Republicans in Congress to use their influence to obtain for Townsend plan legislation an early and complete hearing."

The Republicans wanted the support of William H. McMasters, Townsendites candidate for governor, who had polled 48,000 votes in the Republican primary. This is the explanation of the amazing plank, but it certainly is no adequate excuse. The so-called and usually self-styled "practical" politician if questioned would probably smile wisely and whisper that the plank really doesn't mean a thing; that it merely pledges the Massachusetts Representatives in Congress to "use their influence" to obtain an early and complete hearing.

It is well known to everyone in touch with Washington affairs, including the deluded Townsendites themselves, that there have been exhaustive hearings on the Townsend plan before Congressional committees. Furthermore, it is easy, and these "practical" politicians know it, to obtain early and complete hearings on almost any hare-brained, crackpot scheme that finds its way to Washington. If anyone doubts this let him examine the Congressional Record and the reports of the Committee hearings.

Viewed from any angle this empty gesture of friendliness and support for the crazy economic scheme of Dr. Townsend is a cheap, disturbing piece of demagoguery that will mislead no one but the blindest and most stupid of the Townsend fanatics. It will most certainly not pull the wool over the eyes of those who have looked to the Conservative party in conservative New England to protect the country from the economic fallacies and crackpot schemes of the New Deal, and of the schemers, planners, and spenders who have taken over the management of our nation's affairs.

At its best the plank is a stupid attempt at deception of a considerable number of harmless, groping old men and women who have been deceived and misled sufficiently as it is.

If this sort of thing continues, then one must be forced to conclude that the politicians of both parties are just about alike—they apparently neither know nor care anything about the soundness of the economic issues to which they are supposed to be giving serious and capable attention. The attention of the New Dealers is devoted chiefly to playing the game which they think will keep them in office. More and more certain "practical" politicians among the Republicans are showing that they are doing nothing else but playing the game which they think will put them in office.

Apparently, it makes no difference how completely silly, or stupid, or impossible the game is: they will embrace it if they think it will get them votes. In Massachusetts, they were willing to sell out their principles for the support of 48,000 Townsendites!

The fate of these men at the coming elections will prove an excellent indication of the degree of economic literacy and principle which characterizes the votors of today in those states.

News Behind The News

By PAUL MALLON

World Copyright 1938 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON, Nev. 3.—Ordinarily the one thing a man can cling hopefully to, in a swiftly changing world, is "normal"—the lifeline of those who hope to get back.

Not so with agriculture secretary Wallace. Never was a good natured man so beset by normality. Back in August he was required by the law of congress to decide whether the corn crop was normal. If it had been above normal, he would have had to hold a referendum of corn farmers on crop curtailment. Adverse polls of the corn farmers told him that was not the thing to do, what with an election coming on, and those terrifying Republicans anxious to see the grandeur of the New Deal taken down a peg or two. So what would a wise man do? Mr. Wallace did it. He did not fool with the irate corn farmers. He fooled "normal." Mr. Wallace estimated that a normal year's supply plus exports "adjusted for current trends" (adjusted is the proper word) would amount to 2,470,000,000 bushels. This, he avoided a referendum by pushing normal up. The country was saved for Democracy (capital D please). No referendum was held.

Now the situation is different. If his normal were normal yet, he would have to make corn loans at 61 cents a bushel and he does not want to do that. No one wants to do it. Sixty-one cents is so high above the market price that if he makes corn loans at that figure he might be in the same situation he was in cotton when he loaned too high above the market price. (He got a surplus which he cannot dispose of.)

If you can think of anything better to do than to change "normal" again, you will please communicate with Mr. Wallace, care the agriculture department, Washington, D. C., as he would no doubt like to hear of it. In the interim, a new normal is about to be made.

This "normal" is going to be below 2,454,000,000 bushels, or else Mr. Wallace's mathematicians have lost their courage. That kind of a normal will permit Mr. Wallace to lend 57 cents a bushel, the figure he has already set in an unofficial announcement. If normal were what Mr. Wallace decided it was last August, he would have to lend 61 cents, which would be almost as bad an economic development as if the Republicans won.

So normal revised isn't going to be normal any more. It may be safely said normality is wholly contingent upon whatever Mr. Wallace decides is best.

Much depends on who you are investigating. The same day the Dies committee was brought to turn by the President, the La Follette committee served two subpenas (without announcement) upon California officials of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Thus while the un-American activities inquiry is nearing a close under a White House shadow, the competitive civil liberties investigation is resuming under a California election limelight.

Subpenas were in connection with the new farmers movement there, favoring the Republican senatorial candidate. LaFollette committee suspects N. A. M. had something to do wtih it, but will find out for sure after election.

A report is being prepared by federal reserve recommending better government facilities for small business loans. One suggestion is amendment of Section 13-B of the federal reserve act to permit 10 to 15 year loans through federal reserve banks. Present legal restriction is 5 years, under which about $100,000,000 has been loaned and $15,000,000 is still outstanding. New planners think a half billion in loans could be made under their new setup.

On FRB loans to small business so far, interest already has exceeded losses. Idea of new loans would not be to make an interest profit but to preserve principle. In this respect, RFC has not done much—about $190,000,000, to $125,000,000 in total loans, a bagatelle, economically.

Bows and arrows are being already aimed in congress at the two-price system. A congressman has sent out a letter to all colleagues asking what they thing about it and pointing to the experience of apples. There, 4 per cent of the crop was sequestered by the government for a smaller price sale and many an apple grower has the idea that it ruined the whole market. It deprived the seller of some sales, put the lower price idea in the buyers' mind.

Only thing sure so far is that the two-price idea will not be worked out as simply as it has been conceived.

DELAY ACTION ON BEACH CITY APPOINTMENTS

MORSS' LETTER HITS COUNCIL

LAGUNA BEACH, Nov. 3.—Following reading of a caustic four-page letter from Francis B. Morss, chairman of the local recreational advisory commission, the city council last night deferred action on requests by the American Legion, Woman's club and Toastmasters' club for representation on the recently revamped recreation board.

Morss' letter, in which his own resignation was tendered, devoted considerable attention to castigation of the recently adopted council resolution, which enlarged the scope of the commission, set its members' terms of office, and clarified its future duties. Morss said, in part, that: "representation" (on the recreation commission) of members of "the Gashouse Gang", the "Mystic Order of Owls", "joiners" and "klats hes" would not be in keeping with proper recreational progress." He reviewed the program, past and prospective, outlined by the previous recreation commission. Morss' statements were vigorously challenged by Councilmen Hugh K. Peabody and Charles H. Jester, whose report preceded the council's action in reorganizing the recreation group.

Acrimonious Discussion

After protracted and acrimonious discussion, the matter went over for consideration by the council, action to be taken next meeting. Meanwhile, recommendations made by the three clubs who had named members for places on the board of recreation advisors, were laid aside for future consideration. Morss' resignation also went over for further thought, although the resignation of William Ajax Wolf, Morss' fellowcommissioner, was accepted without comment.

REALTORS URGE ALL MEMBERS TO ACT

Special efforts to have every member of the Santa Ana Realty Board attend tomorrow night's meeting at noon at the Rossmore cafe are being made by President Ray Goodcell and Secretary Marie J. Gothard for a full discussion of what support shall be given the national association in providing for action in the next session of Congress on the National Housing act.

"The national association meets in Minneapolis next week and will take up the problem of providing for financing of existing homes now written into the National Housing act. This clause will expire in July 1939," Goodcell said.

Final Opportunity

"We are anxious that the national Realtors association take action to have this clause renewed before its expiration and next week's meeting of the association will be our last opportunity.

"In order to get our wishes to the national association we must send in our recommendation immediately and we want a full expression of opinion on the matter from all of the realtors in the city," Goodcell said.

HUSBAND SENTENCED

Found guilty of failure to support his three minor children, in Santa Ana justice court today, Willard Ashford, of Camino, Calif., near Sacramento, was given a one-year suspended county jail term on condition he begin December 1, paying $20 monthly for the support. Chris P. Pann, acting as justice of the peace in the absence of Justice K. E. Morrison, passed judgment, placed Ashford on probation for two years.

P.-T. A. GROUP HOLDS PROGRAM

COSTA MESA, Nov. 3.—With "The Responsibility of Parents in Establishing Right Habits" as the theme a program was presented at the meeting of the Costa Mesa elementary school P.-T. A. Tuesday afternoon. The place of habit in all life from babyhood on was described by Mrs. Everett Rea in "Establishing Right Mental Habits."

The establishment of "Right Moral Habits," was considered a matter of individual training by Mrs. Delford Hatch, who urged religious training as an aid to self reliant decisions on the questions and relative values of yes and no. Mrs. Lee Trine reviewed the article, "Parents, Children and Their Money."

Entertainment included opening group singing of "America the Beautiful," "Stars of the Summer Night" and "Robinhood," vocal numbers by sixth grade students under Miss Alice Borchard. Fifth grade students were represented by Frances Wilcox in accordion numbers, Jeanne Lou Grund, costume dance; Frances Langford, tap dance, and Delores Lockhart, specialty number.

Townsend Raps Ham and Eggers

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Dr. Francis Townsend, originator of the Townsend $200 a month old age pension plan, said today that the $30 every Thursday proposition to be presented California voters in next Tuesday's election was "wholly impractical and absurd."

He expressed "my entire sympathy" with motives behind the current pension scheme but said that its backers were like "drowning people grasping at straws."

"Straws won't help them," he said.

Townsend, here on business, said the California pension plan, which would give all residents over 50, $30 a week in scrip, was doomed because banks and business houses would refuse to accept the scrip.

Give Up Search; Open Wrong Grave

LONDON, Nov. 3.—(UP)—They opened the wrong grave in the poet's corner of Westminster Abbey—and so the historic Shakespeare literary mystery remains unsolved.

The attempt to prove, by digging into the tomb of Poet Edmund Spenser, that Francis Bacon was the real author of William Shakespeare's dramas ended suddenly when experts of the Baconian society decided that they had dug into the wrong tomb.

As a result, they abandoned their search for an original Shakespeare manuscript that might have solved the 170 year old dispute, due to the opposition of the dean of Westminster Abbey to further excavations.

Hornblower To Testify at Quiz

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 3.—(UP)—District Attorney Otis D. Babcock said today Assemblyman William Hornblower of San Francisco has been subpenaed to reappear before the Sacramento county grand jury, probably Nov. 18.

Hornblower was first summoned before the jury, inquiring into charges of legislative corruption, several months ago in connection with his activities in behalf of legislation injurious to commercial sardine fishing interests.

TUNNEL WORK SETS RECORD

Drilling and blasting their way through the few remaining feet of rock barrier on the spectacular 13-mile San Jacinto tunnel, the crack hard rock tunnel crews of the Metropolitan Water district established an all-time record for progress during the month of October, it was revealed today in official reports received in the office of General F. E. Weymouth of the district.

Progress Revealed

Tunnel crews working toward each other from the Potrero shaft and the Lawrence adit excavated 1622 feet of granite in the 18-foot diameter bore during October, or the greatest amount of footage ever made from two headings on this difficult tunnel since it was started in April, 1933, the district engineering reports showed.

Less than 750 feet of rock remained to be drilled and blasted from the San Jacinto mountain to complete all excavation work on the tunnel, it was reported today by General Superintendent B. C. (Mike) Leadbetter. It is expected that this work will be completed within the next 18 or 20 days.

Main Line Completed

All sections of the waterway on the main line of the Colorado River aqueduct, including 92 miles of tunnels, have been completed, with the exception of the San Jacinto tunnel, which has been the "bottle neck" of this giant project. With only a few feet of rock barrier still standing on the San Jacinto bore, the completion of the entire project is now assured within the next several months, it was pointed out.

The entire hood raises for easy access to the engine. The deluxe Ford cars are powered with 85 horsepower V-8 engine. Brakes are hydraulic. Interiors are styled to match the outward beauty of the car. There is a large luggage compartment in which the spare tire is carried. The new cars will go on display tomorrow at George Dunton's sales and service, 810 North Main street.

The pictures have been donated for the occasion by various clerks and carriers and were pictures made on various vacation trips by the amateur protographers of the postal service.

TWO 'FINEST FORDS' WILL BE DISPLAYED

"The two finest Ford cars in the 35 years of the company's history will be given their first public showing tomorrow in Santa Ana at George Dunton, sales and service, 810 North Main street.

"The cars are the 1939 Ford V-8 and the 1939 DeLuxe Ford V-8," Dunton said. "They are individually styled. Both are of compelling beauty and both have hydraulic brakes.

"Introduction of the new Fords climaxes a year of activity which saw the company embark on its current plant expansion program, bring out its entirely new Mercury 8, and establish the Lincoln-Zephyr still more firmly as the acknowledged style leader in the automobile industry.

"The DeLuxe Ford V-8, with wholly new streamlines, has a distinctive appearance of its own. At the same time, both it and the Ford V-8 share a family likeness with the Lincoln-Zephyr and the new Mercury 8.

"The DeLuxe has a deep hood with long lines unbroken by louvres, low radiator grille in bright metal, and wide-spaced headlamps set into the fenders. The words Ford DeLuxe, in script letters of chrome, are divided at the front of the hood. The hood handle is concealed in a vertical extension of the radiator ornament.

"The 1939 DeLuxe is powered by an 85 horsepower V-8 engine of even more rugged construction than the 5,000,000 already in use. The Ford V-8 is offered with the same engine as the DeLuxe or with the economy 60 horsepower V-8 engine.

Telescopes 'see' better in natural gas regions

~and this is important to you!

Southern California's astronomers can study thousands of stars that are invisible in regions where chimneys smoke. And not only astronomers but everybody gets the benefit of clean air in communities that depend on natural gas. For gas alone gives — without smoke — the intense, economical heat that homes and factories need.

When your home is equipped with well-conditioned modern gas appliances, a year's service will not cause enough soot to cover the bottom of a thimble. That's a truth worth remembering when you think of cleanliness in cookery and other household services.

Look over the newest gas appliances, today! They're not only the last word in cleanliness — they are actually ahead of the times in labor-saving operation! See a dealer or the gas company. Ask about the easy payment plans.

Jimmie Fidler in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 3.—The announcement that Tyrone Power will probably play Abraham Lincoln in "Lawyer of the West" leaves me punch-drunk. Tyrone, for a juvenile, is a capable actor and he is undoubtedly "Box-office"—but he no more fits the role of the Great Emancipator, "The Man of Sorrows," than Mae West fits the role of Little Eva. Physically, Lincoln was gaunt, awkward, graceless, so tall that he towered about average men. His rugged face, for all its kindliness expressed inflexible strength of will. Henry Fonda might do; Gary Cooper would be perfect—but I don't think America will accept a graceful, handsome, romantic type as its beloved, "Honest Abe."

I can't understand why Twentieth Century-Fox insists on trying to make a Muni out of a likeable youngster who, by playing the romantic parts for which he is perfectly tailored, could be the No. 7 matinee idol. "Second Honeymoon"? Fine! "Alexander's Rag-time Band"? Great! But the same audiences that cheered him in those suitable roles are going to jeer if he violates their conception of Lincoln. In "Suez," playing a middle-aged man who had the determination to fight through a great engineering feat in the face of every obstacle, he seemed miscast—and I'm reserving by opinion about his believeableness as an indomitable outlaw chief in "Jesse James." Someday, perhaps, Tyrone Power can play such parts, but he lacks the maturity to play them now and I think they are endangering his career. Hollywood makes the mistake, too frequently, of thinking that a good box-office rating makes a star ideal for any and all assignments.

Everyone who meets Nancy Kelly comments on the faint, musky perfume that clings to her hair. It is an elusive, delightful fragrance, always noticeable yet never too strong. Lunching with her today, I asked how she achieves it and she explained that she has the wave in her hair set with toilet water, full strength. Then she sits under the electric dryer until the odor is weakened to suit her taste. And it lasts, undiminished, from one visit to the hairdressers until the next. I thought some of you ladies might be interested.

CALAVO SHOWS FINAL DIVIDEND

The 1938 season's Calavo-avocado crop returned its cooperating producers a ten per cent higher average return than did the preceding crop, despite the poor buying power of the past year, it was announced today by Manager George B. Hodgkin of the Calavo Growers of California.

He stated that the avocado is one of the few farm products to bring a better average return for 1938.

Payment Authorized

An average return, over all grades and all varieties of avocados handled, of $1 per packed flat, was netted by co-operative growers, against 91 cents for the year before.

Average returns on the Fuerte variety alone, however, were higher. A "final dividend" of five cents per packed flat has also been authorized to be paid on each of the 564,042 flats of avocados, of all varieties, handled during the past season.

Estimate Correct

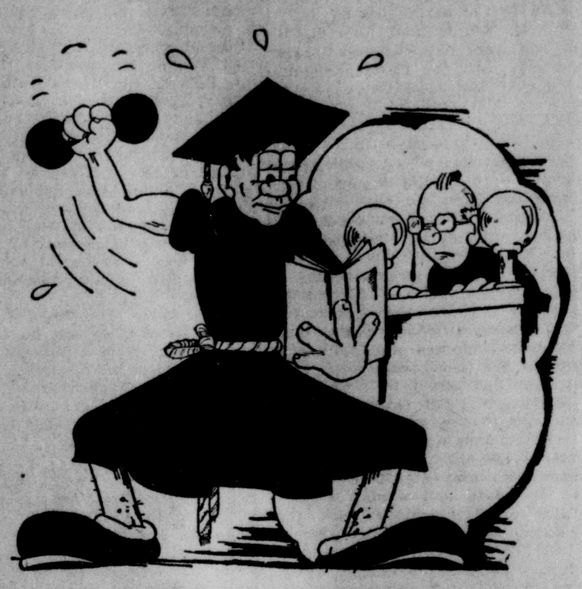

The 1938 Calavo-avocado crop as actually handled came within one per cent of the pre-season estimate, the Calavo manager revealed. Approximately 1,300,000 flats are predicted for the new season, now beginning.

A total of 319 growers joined the producers' marketing cooperative during the past season.

S. A. HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT WINS U. S. ARTIST LAURELS

Highest honors in the United States given to Eugene Hamaker of Santa Ana high school for winning a cartoon contest in which many thousands of high school students competed, have proved he is artist with pen as well as football, it was revealed here today.

Hamaker, captain and star halfback of Santa Ana high school football team, yesterday received from the National Education association two certificates of merit, one for drawing the best cartoon on the subject, "Development of Body and Mind," the other naming him "grand champion" of the contest.

Shares With Others

Hamaker shared the grand honor with five other high school students—all from California—who also received two certificates of merit, identically the same kind received by Hamaker. AREA GAINS BY 'UTOPIA' YARN

Harry May of the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce, today is congratulating himself and the City of Fullerton for nation-wide publicity on a story that appeared in The Register last July and this week is carried in an article in the Saturday Evening Post entitled "California Votes on Utopia", by John C. Lee and Ralph Shawhan.

Following is a quotation from the Post article:

"On a July day, Jose Morales, of Fullerton, Calif., was driving to Long Beach. A hitch-hiker waved his thumb. Morales stopped. Before the passenger left Morales, he gave him a 'check'. In the usual place for the amount were the figures '$30'. Gratefully surprised, Morales returned to Fullerton and bought $30 worth of groceries, giving the 'check' in payment. The grocer ordered more supplies and passed on the $30 'check'. The wholesaler, probably in some well-warranted doubt, sent it to the bank. The bank cashier studied the piece of paper and a little later the sheriff called on Jose Morales.

"Jose, the sheriff explained, would have to dig up $30 in cash, because the 'check' was an advertising specimen of the California Pension plan.

"This brief interlude effectively illustrates both the hopes and the fears aroused by the pension plan. Morales preview of the system in operation stimulated the grocery business briefly, but the bank refused to take the piece of paper."

LEE ENTHUSIASTIC OVER FIND OF GOLD

Elated over the prospect of the possibility of direct corroboration by California division of mines experts of his gold and silver discovery claims in the recent past, Harry M. Lee, of 314 West Walnut street, today had received a letter from W. B. Tucker, California district mining engineer, of San Francisco.

"In your letter you refer to high-grade ore on a property in Holcomb Valley (11 miles above Big Bear lake), samples of which assay 60 to 90 ounces per ton in silver, over a vein 18 inches in width," says Tucker's letter.

Worthy of Inqurry

"This is very interesting," the letter continues, "and is worthy of investigation. As soon as our work is completed in Mono county, probably by the latter part of November, we shall be glad then to make a trip to properties in which you are interested." Lee also called attention to gold ore that he had in his possession.

The letter from Lee to Tucker was accompanied by a certificate of assay, which was signed by N. H. Hilton, Ph. D., of 1903 North Main street.

Miss Schieber Has Register Reunion Party

Out from her Ohio home for an autumn visit with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hoiles, 2010 Victoria Drive, Miss Evelyn Schieber last night was hostess to those feminine members of the Register staff, with whom she was so closely associated two years ago. At that time, Miss Schieber spent a year or so in Santa Ana, and was connected with the classified advertising department of the paper. She was active also in Junior Ebell society, and as a gifted 'cellist, was a member of Junior Ebell trio.

It was especially pleasant for last night's guests to be brought together again, for several, like their hostess, are no longer with the Register. Mrs. Hoiles joined her sister in welcoming the group, which had been entertained on previous occasions in her friendly home.

Reminiscences flew thick and fas tas guests found places at the table for the pleasant dinner hour. These memoirs were colored by a holiday atmosphere established by the attractive arrangement of the table. Scarlet leaves were twined at the bases of matching candles, and small Thanksgiving turkeys took their proud way through the sprays.

Autumn leaves appeared again on tally cards for the evening's bridge play, but before the games started, guests enjoyed an interval with the small son and daughter of the home, Jimmie and little Miss Judith Hoiles.

Of the four electing to play auction, Mrs. George Risch made the prize-winning score, while first and consolation prizes in contract went to Miss Helen Lutz and Mrs. William Fritcher. They were playing in competition with their hostess, Miss Schieber, her sister, Mrs. Hoiles, Mrs. John V. Minihan, Mrs. Paul Gilbert, Mrs. Marah Adams, Miss Dorothy Gowdy, Mrs. Carleton Smith, Mrs. Carl C. Thrasher and Mrs. Emmett Elliott.

Gas Masquerade Party Enlivens Hallowe'en For Orange Aides

No festive observance given the Hallowe'en season was more thoroughly enjoyed than the party which Orange Aides staged in their clubhouse down on Newport Heights.

Everything about the clubhouse lent itself to the season's theme, and with Miss Gretha Clark of Balboa Island as hostess the young people gave themselves over to an evening that seemed the merriest of all their club affairs. All appeared in masquerade attire, and there was much guessing as to identities until the hour came for unmasking. Games and an impromptu program were features. Miss Elsie Lee Huffine, club president, came down from her art school studies in Los Angeles, accompanied by some of her college friends. Two of them, Bill Wilder as a "Hill Billy," and Hank Scudder as his girl friend "Petunia," put on an impromptu hillbilly performance that was one of the highlights of the evening.

Miss Huffine, in Spanish costume, danced a jota to castanet accompaniment, and music for the grand march before costume judges, was provided by Bill Wilder on the harmonica. Hank Scudder, Miss Ruth Bartlett and Miss Thelma Sharp took prizes for their clever disguises.

Cider and doughnuts were served to conclude the enjoyable party, which was shared by Miss Ruth Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar L. Huffine, Miss Thelma Sharp, Miss Elsie Lee Huffine and Floyd Ritter, Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. R H. Hall, Miss Carol Lee Hall, Miss Christine Baird and Herbert Baird, Costa Mesa; Mrs. R. H. Decorations of Party Are in Harmony with Layette Theme Afternoon party guests early this week of Mrs. R. R. Williams, 910 Hickory street, entered with enthusiasm into plans their hostess had made to compliment Mrs. Ford M. Lesher with a layette shower.

All took part in a succession of clever guessing games which Mrs. Williams had planned as appropriate to the nature of the party. Mrs. H. Kiesler and Mrs. R. K. Dobson were prize-winners in the contests. All the flower appointments of the home were in the delicate blue and pink of babyhood, and the table in the dining room was centered with a large blue umbrella whose pink garlands were matched by those showering from the chandelier.

Many be-ribboned packages were heaped around the umbrella, but the shower was introduced by tiny Glenda Corning's entry drawing a little blue-wheeled cart filled with packages which she presented Mrs. Lesher. Glenda, who is only two years old, was a cunning picture in her frilled blue frock with little ruffled apron to match.

After the gift interval, Mrs. Williams served sandwiches, coffee and pumpkin pie with whipped cream. She used prettily arranged trays with pink and blue baskets for the nuts and mints.

Her guests included with the honoree, Mrs. Lesher, Mesdames James E. Mahaffey, Starr Ozment, C. A. Johnson, William D. Craig, Anna Shore, Curry, Charles Goode, Jack Hall, R. K. Dobson, S. Earl Fromm, H. Kiesler, Clyde Corning and her little daughter Glenda.

Lagier-Goeman Wedding Held This Morning

One of the first of the many church weddings calendared for November took place this morning in St. Joesph Catholic church where Miss Anne Goeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Goeman, West First street, and Ernest Lagier, son of Mrs. Eloide Lagier of this city, were married.

The Rev. Father Timothy Calvin officiated at the 8:30 o'clock rites for which church decorations in autumn theme included yellow and white chrysanthemums against a background of palms. Mrs. Richards was at the organ, playing the Wedding Marches and other selections including accompaniment for Frank Marr, who sang "Ave Maria."

Mr. Goeman gave his daughter in marriage. She was charming in white mousseline de soie with a fingertip veil banded with pearls. Her bouquet was gardenias. Setting the mode for the bridal attendants' gowns was the marquisette-organza frock worn by the matron of honor, the bride's sister, Mrs. Don Davis (Clare Goeman). In the marine bule of her costume was her shoulder length veil crowned with a single gardenia. She carried a nosegay of chrysanthemums as did Miss Irene Callens in aqua blue and Mrs. Dwight Ahern in jonquil yellow. Their veils, too, matched their gowns. The bridegroom's brother, Rene Lagier, was best man. Ushers were the bride's brother, Louie Goeman and Charles Vermeulen.

Wedding Breakfast

Following the nuptials, members of the bridal party and guests numbering 35 were received at Danigers for a wedding breakfast climaxed with the serving of the bride's cake. Mrs. H. Goeman was in teal blue and Mrs. Eloide Lagier, in black, each with a gardenia corsage bouquet. The bride's sister Mrs. Frank Marr and the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Albert Baeskens, who assisted, were presented with gardenia corsage bouquets.

When the new Mr and Mrs. Laiger left for a trip to Sacramento, the bride was attired in a black pin-striped tailleur with white satin blouse and patent-leather accessories. They plan to reside on Mr. Lagier's ranch in Irvine. A graduate of Tustin Union High school, the bridegroom is manager of Irvine Ball club. His bride is a graduate of Santa Ana High school.

Rehearsal for the wedding was held last night in the church. Later in the evening, members of the party assembled in the Goeman home for refreshments.

Party Guests Present Daintiest of Gifts To Honoree

There was a special meaning to the pretty pink rosebuds and baby chrysanthemums with which Mrs. Floyd Epperly and Mrs. Richard McMurray garlanded the Epperly home, 709 South Shelton street, for a dessert bridge early this week. For the two hostesses planned the afternoon party as a compliment to Mrs. Nelson Rogers, and so emphasized the colors and theme of infancy in all details.

Foursome tables where guests were seated for the dessert course, held clusters of the dainty flowers, while favors were the tiny pink bootie nut cups. Even napkins were so folded as to present the appearance of little baby shirts.

In afternoon bridge play, first and consolation prizes were won by Mrs. Lee Hamilton and the party honoree, Mrs. Rogers. For further "consolation," the latter had the pleasure of claiming the layette gifts, which were placed on a table guarded by a tall stork.

Mrs. Epperly and Mrs. McMurray included on their guest list with Mrs. Rogers, Mesdames Kimball Pratt, Lee Hamilton, Roy Lighthall, Robert Stumm, Noble Rennekker, Bruce Harnois, Neal Adams, Miss Hazel Forrester and Miss Lola Weethee, all members of Sigma Beta Chi sorority.

DESSERT BRIDGE

Chrysanthemums in bronze and yellow tones decked the home of Mrs. C. F. Skirvin, 935 Oak street Tuesday afternoon for a monthly bridge club event. Dessert was served to precede card play.

Mrs. A. J. Lasby and Mrs. W. B. Williams held the two highest scores in bridge. Others present were the hostess and Mesdames F. E. Earel, John Bower, W. B. Martin, Fleetwood Bell, J. C. Sexton, George Munro, Hazel Turner, Alex Brownridge and a guest, Mrs. J. C. Metzgar, substituting for Mrs. C. E. Downie.

Each colony of bees has its own particular odor, and any strange bee is detected at once and driven out. If a hive is divided, a difference develops in the odors of the two colonies and within a week's time the insects are total strangers.

Mixing Bowl
BY ANN MEREDITH

If you are handy with the crochet needle you can make innumerable sets of glass "stockings" for your friends at a cost of a few cents per set of eight. I was given a set last Christmas and of all the things I received they cost the least and have given me the most pleasure. Slip the stockings onto glasses when you are serving liquids of any kind. You can then give your mind entirely to the question of whether or not to up your partner's two-bid to game, and not worry about wet rings on pet tables.

Don't write and ask me for directions to make these glass stockings. At an early age I was soured on knitting and 'sich' by being made to sit and knit as punishment. So, from that day on, knitting and crocheting have been unexplored territory to me. However, any knitting class teacher can tell you how to make them. I suggest finishing the edge of each stocking in a different color . . . makes it easy to remember each person's glass.

TODAY'S RECIPES
Pineapple Pie

Scald 1½ cups top milk with ½ cup sugar
Blend smooth in a little cold milk
2 tablespoons cornstarch and
⅛ teaspoon salt
Beat 2 egg yolks and strain into cornstarch.
1 cup crushed pineapple, well drained.
2 egg whites beaten stiff, then with
4 tablespoons powdered sugar, to make meringue for top of pie.
1 baked pie shell.

—contributed.

When the milk is at the bubble in its double boiler, stir in the cornstarch and egg yolk. Stir until thick and smooth, then cook 20 minutes. Cool this dressing, combine with crushed pineapple and spoon into the baked pie shell. Spread meringue on top of pie and brown in slow oven.

* * *

I like contrast in flavors, so if I were making this pie, I would add the juice of ½ lemon to the meringue and increase the powdered sugar by 2 tablespoonfuls.

Codfish Cakes With Bacon

½ pound fillet of codfish, shredded and soaked in hot water 1 hour before cooking with 4 large potatoes
Add 1 beaten egg
2 tablespoons melted butter
½ teaspoon baking powder mixed with
¼ cup cream.
A little pepper.
Crisp fried bacon, 3 strips to a serving.

Prepare the fish cakes at least 6 hours before using, for the mixture must have time to cool and get firm. After cooking fish and potatoes, drain and mash well. Add egg, butter and cream with a good dash of pepper. Mix well and pack into a bowl to chill. Form into flat cakes, dip them in zwiebach crumbs and brown slowly in bacon fat.

Louis-Lewis Title Fight Signed

WEST WINDS
HERE AND THERE IN SPORT
By Eddie West

IDLE THOUGHTS

My idea of a head-writers' nightmare: The Louis-Lewis championship fight, just signed. But think of the radio announcers.

Mighty kind of San Mateo jaysee to schedule a game at San Bernardino tomorrow night. The Dons play at San Mateo Nov. 18 and the Northern team's invasion of the Southland saves Santa Ana jaysee a neat sum in scouting fees.

Wonder if the high and mighty C. I. F. will forget Tustin again this season if the Tillers go through their Orange County league season undefeated? Last year, when Bill Cole's gang won the championship the C. I. F. didn't even remember to put Tustin in the Southern California playoff bracket.

Attention race bugs: Joe Hernandez will be back on KWFB regularly begining Tuesday at 7:30. The less important races (political) end that day.

Al Clayes of Citrus jaysee says that Eastern conference teams have scored more points against his team this year than the Owls have yielded in the past six years.

Conference regulations won't allow Coach Art Nunn of Fullerton's basketball team from starting practice before December 1 but they can't stop big Art from THINKING basketball. He's drumming up a barnstorming trip for the 'jackets during the Christmas holidays.

Pasadena papers are beating the tom-toms for Jackie Robinson, dusky backfield ace who has run wild in every game Pasadena jaysee's undefeated footballers have played. Rube Samuelson, no provincial reporter either, says Robinson is of All-America timber, and intends to sit down and write a letter saying so to Grantland Rice . . . . although the Rube concedes that he'll be wasting his time because Rice and other pickers never consider junior college players.

Convinced their athletic teams are outclassed in the Foothill league (against Whitter, South Pasadena, Glendale and Hoover) officials of Fullerton high school are about ready to petition the C. I. F. for a change of venue.

Departmental Chief Glenn Lewis has in mind what he terms an "ideal" new league, composed of schools within a few hundred students of the same size and all within a radius of a few miles. Lewis' schools would be Santa Ana, Fullerton, Anaheim, Excelsior, Huntington Beach, perhaps one or two others.

As far as I know, Santa Ana bigwigs are well and happy in the Citrus Belt where rivalry is keen, even and clean. Some of the trips are long but that doesn't matter. The kids like to see the country.

Coach Bill Foote of the Santa An Saints picks Pomona over Riverside tomorrow for the C.B.L. prep title . . . . but has his fingers crossed. "Pomona ought to win," says Bill, "yet Riverside has a better line and a fella might be foolish picking a team with the better line to lose."

100 FORFEIT CARDS TO STANFORD GAME

STANFORD UNIVERSITY — (UP)—One hundred Stanford students forfeited their student athletic cards to school officials today on charges the cards had been used by persons other than the students to gain admission to athletic contests.

Officials said a checkup revealed the cards had been used "illegally at the recent Stanford-U.C.L.A. game at Los Angeles.

TICKET SALES THREATEN S. C. GRID RECORDS

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES—Advance ticket sales indicated today that Saturday's S. C.-California game may break the 92,000 attendance record for the Coliseum set in 1932 when otre Dame played the Trojans. Troy's injured players were recovering but there was still little chance of Mickey Anderson, Floyd Phillips or Ralph Stanley seeing action Saturday.

BERKELEY—Coach "Stub" Allison was reported making further shifts in the University of California's varsity football team in preparation for Saturday's game against U.S.C. Bill Stoll and Wilbur Dolman, injured linemen will be able to play against U.S.C. but will not be in the opening lineup, Allison said.

PALO ALTO—More hard luck for Stanford's Cardinals was reported today when Jay Brenner, new right halfback, limped onto the practice field with an injured ankle. He twisted it yesterday. It was thought, however, it would not keep Brenner out of the starting lineup against the University of Washington this week.

MOSCOW, Ida.—University of Idaho's Vandals prepared to leave today for Eugene to meet the University of Oregon Saturday in a game Idaho's supporters consider a tossup. The Vandals consider they have an even chance to whip Oregon despite Idaho's defeat by U.C.L.A., which Oregon defeated.

SANTA CLARA— Still undefeated and untied, the Santa Clara Broncos were back on their home field today after knocking over Michigan State 7-6, in an intersectional game last week. The Broncos meet University of San Francisco Sunday.

SEATTLE— Thirty University of Washington football players were headed south today for Palo Alto where the squad hopes to defeat Stanford Saturday and hang up the first Washington win of the season. The squad was reported in "fine spirits."

PULLMAN, Wash.— Hopes for a Washington State victory over U.C.L.A. Saturday rose today with Coach "Babe" Hollingbery reporting all injured players had returned to the squad. Hollingbery said his team would be at full strength when it meets U.C.L.A.

ROSS, NUNEZ OUT OF RIVERSIDE CONTEST

Announcing Santa Ana's starting lineup for the game tomorrow night at Riverside, Coach Bill Cook disclosed today that neither Guard Bill Ross nor End Jimmie Nunez, both first string men, will be able to play because of injuries. Ross is still out with a knee injury and Nunez is suffering from a back sprain that is not responding to treatment.

Joy and Joseph are slated to get the call at ends; Nehrig and Leivermann, tackles; Kotlar and Mickelwait, guards; Lentz, center; Saunders or Monroy, quarter: Lindskog and Beck, halfbacks and Timken, fullback. Stafford was also named as a possible starter at halfback.

Quarterback Don Borden, who announced Tuesday that he was leaving school, was prevailed on by teammates and the coaching staff to remain with the squad. He will probably see some action against the Bengals.

Tackle Jack Stafford, brother of Halfback Charles Stafford, loomed as a new find on the practice field yesterday when he messed up play after play run over his position. Cook and Ward immediately requested him to start learning the standing guard spot where they believe he will be of more value to the team.

Saunders Voted Don-of-Week

Dick Saunders today got official recognition for his smashing game, even in defeat, for Santa Ana jaysee against San Bernardino last week. Spectators voted that he was Don-of-the-Week in the poll at Vandermast's.

Weeghman, Old Cub Owner, Dies of Stroke

CHICAGO —(UP)—Funeral services will be held Saturday for Charles H. Weeghman, 64, onetime waiter whose ability made him lunchroom king of Chicago and owner of the Chicago Cubs baseball club. He died yesterday following a stroke.

His first job was as a waiter in a "Loop" restaurant for $10 a week. He saved his money, opened his own restaurant and featured quick service with the one arm chair system. Before long he was operating a chain and had expanded to theater interests. He became known as "Lucky Charlie."

In 1914 he backed the Federal Baseball league which had been organized to compete with two established leagues. It collapsed and he bought the Cubs from Charles P. Taft, a brother of President Taft, for $500,000.

He resigned as president of the Cubs in 1918 and in 1920, faced by suits of several creditors, sold out to William Wrigley, jr. He moved his restaurant business to New York 10 years ago.

Jordan, coached by Rocky Kemp, is undefeated and marking time for its big game at Excelsior Nov. 18. If the Tars can put over an upset they'll be in the very thick of the titular race; they play Excelsior, the league's other undefeated topnotcher, at Newport next week.

Excelsior has a home game with Orange tomorrow. The Orangemen are improving and might be good for a surprise themslves.

Other Friday encounter pairs Al Reboin's Huntington Beach Drillers and Dick Glover's Anaheim Colonists, teams that have been laboring under the handicap of one injury after another. Anaheim's latest setback was the loss of Keith Beebe, ace back, for the season.

ROBERTSON IS 'SOLD' FOR $101 IN GOLF STAKE

Jack Robertson was established as an odds-on favorite today to win the Santa Ana Country club golf championship when he was "sold" at the club's Calcutta dinner for $101.

The 32 golfers who qualified in the championship flight brought all the way from $4 to the top price paid for Robertson, creating a pool of $492 which will be paid to the purchasers of players in last night's Calcutta sale.

Dick Ewert, former club champion, brought the second best price of the auction when he was bid up to $83. Eddie Holmes, another former champion went under the hammer for $51 with "Chuck" Denio, erstwhile caddy and "hot" right now, selling for $35.

Others who sold for good prices and might return their purchasers plenty of cash were Lawrence Bemis $35.50; L. D. Coffing $33; F. E. Farnsworth $31; Ben Manker $30; L. H. Robinson, $27; George Baker, $25; A. B. Watson $21. A. W. Robinson, who was runner-up to W. W. Foote last year, was a bargain at $18.

The Calcutta was the first ever held at the Country club and nearly 100 golfers participated in the dinner and program.

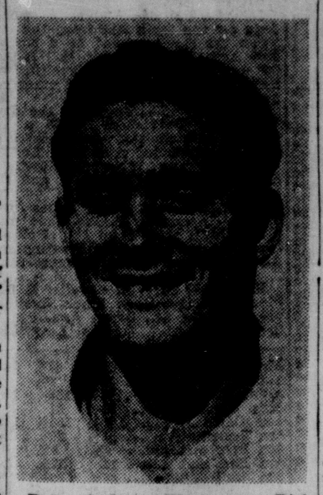

Pairings for the championship tournament will be made sometime today and first round matches will be started Saturday. First round matches must be completed by the following Saturday.

Following are the qualifiers for the championship flight and the price they sold for, listed in the order in which they were drawn:

Friday's Games

Laguna Beach at Brea-Olinda; San Juan Capistrano at Valencia; Garden Grove at Tustin.

Garden Grove's hardy Argonauts, one of the Orange league's better defensive teams, hopes to scare another inch off Tustin's football growth tomorrow.

Long bitter prep rivals, the two contenders clash at Tustin, with the Tillers established as favorites despite their narrow squeak (12-7) at Laguna Beach last week.

Comparative scores give all the best of it to Tustin which murdered Valencia 54-0, a team Garden Grove laced only 18-0. Valencia is the lone common oponent.

Meanwhile, up at Brea, one of "Shorty Smith's typical dark horse Wildcat elevens takes on tough little Laguna in another red hot attraction. If the Artists lose they'll be out of the pennant chase with two upsets.

San Juan Capistrano and Valencia hook up at Placentia, with the Cougars of Capistrano conceded an edge.

Biscuit's Best Race In Claimer—Howard

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BALTIMORE, Md. — Charlie Howare will tell you that the greatest two-horse race that Seabiscuit ever won was not the one Tuesday when he came pounding down the stretch to conquer War Admiral before 40,000 hysterical spectators and stamp himself as the country's finest thoroughbred.

Howard will tell you that the gamest, most courageous race the Bircuit ever won was at Saratoga two years ago, in a claiming race, and when his foe was not mighty War Admiral but Treford, an animal remembered only in the record books.

Seabiscuit was just the workhorse of the Wheatley stable then. Just a horse who, raced 35 times as a two-year-old, was on the verge of breaking down from weariness and a bad knee. But he went out against Treford, picked up his weight, and, with Howard's glasses following his every step, made up between ten to fifteen lengths in the stretch and won.

Howard knew heat when he saw it, so a few days later he handed Ogden Mills a check for $8000 and Seabiscuit changed stables. Walter O'Hara could have had him the day earlier had he not balked at the price. O'Hara offered $7500 and would not go a penny higher. Since then Howard's castoff has banked $340,000 for him.

Seabiscuit's new owner had vets look him over and they pronounced the three-year-old "serviceably useful," and that's all. They didn't like the looks of his left knee. Well, he still has a crazy knee. It's big and knotty and gives him a peculiar stride, but it doesn't stop him from running like a runaway locomotive when the wire's in sight and it's time to turn on the power.

Sitting in a hotel room Tuesday night, only a few hours after the Admiral had been conquered, Howard had difficulty controlling his voice when he spoke of the happenings at the head of the stretch when Seabiscuit simply ran away with the race.

"There never was a gamer horse, so help me," he said. "If he didn't have all the heart in the world, wasn't made out of pure iron, he would be dead now. Just think of it, 84 races, and he made the 84th one in record time, against a horse most people thought could beat him going away."

Sitting around talking, Howard told how the match race between Seabiscuit and Admiral was made. It started a year ago when he suggested to Alfred Vanderbilt here that such a battle would be a great thing for Pimlico. Samuel Riddle, the Admiral's owner, didn't think much of the idea and indicated that he didn't consider the Biscuit in the Admiral's class. It was Vanderbilt's mother who really made the race possible. Working through Joseph Widener, who, in turn, worked on Riddle, the race began to take shape.

Three times the two rivals were on the verge of meeting, and on each occasion it was Seabiscuit who failed to meet the issue. Howard believes that he was unjustly criticized for these failures. The Biscuit didn't meet the Admiral at Laurel because the track was bad.

"Would you run your horse on a track that you knew ruined his every chance?" Howard asked.

Seabiscuit broke down six days before the Belmont $100,000 race was scheduled to be held. The Biscuit was in such poor shape at Belmont, worked so poorly, that the officials called off the race without even making Biscuit give them a secret workout, which Howard offered.

"Their clockers had told them how miserable he was," Howard said. "He never did work the mile there better than forty-two."

Seabiscuit was scratched at the last minute at Suffolk Downs because his legs went bad—a trouble that wasn't discovered until just before race-time when his bandages were removed.

"If I had raced him that day I would have broken him down for good," Howard said. "I would have been a fool to do that, no matter what was said about me. The old boy had taken enough punishment in his lifetime without my piling any more on."

Seabiscuit will continue to go to the races. Howard doesn't know where his next start will be, but it will probably be right here at Pimlico where he is entered in several stakes.

JACOBS PAIRS TWO NEGROES ON JANUARY 27

BY LESLIE AVERY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Joe Louis signs articles today to defend his world heavyweight championship against the lightheavy titleholder, John Henry Lewis, "bad boy" of boxin and just about the toughest opponent Joe could have chosen for a mid-winter tuneup.

Louis and Lewis, with their managers, meet Promoter Mike Jacobs in the Hippodrome at noon to sign contracts for a 15-round fight in Madison Square Garden January 27. It will be the first all-Negro heavyweight title bout ever held in the America's and the first in the world in 25 years when Jack Johnson defended his crown against Jim Johnson at Paris in 1913.

The match surprised fight followers, because Lewis and his manager, Gus Greenlee, failed to fall in line when Jacobs came into promotional power. Also, Lewis has a $100,000 damage suit pending against the New York athletic commission for vacating his title in this state.

At first the match looked like a conspiracy between Jacobs and the commission to rid themselves of "the pest" by letting Champion Louis belt John Henry into the petunias. But upon closer inspection, it assumes the aspects of a battle. Lewis is a rough, ring-hardened warrior who never has been knocked out, and he packs the punch to kayo the champion.

Joe, with a 20-pound pull in the weights, undoubtedly will be a heavy favorite. However, in John Henry he is meeting a man no older than himself and one who is a better boxer.

Jacobs and the Louis camp regard the bout in the nature of a tuneup, a chance to pick up some easy change before a big outdoor title defense in June. But, are they forgetting that Joe grows notoriously loggy with idleness? He hasn't had a fight since he kayoed Max Schmeling June 22.

The lone obstacle is that the commission might withhold approval of the match unless John Henry agrees to withdraw his $100,000 damage suit and abandon the light-heavy crown.

Lewis might agree to the latter because he announced after his successful title defense last Friday night that he would prefer to campaign in the heavy ranks

Tomorrow's Games

Redlands at Santa Ana; Chaffey at San Bernardino; Riverside at Pomona.

Battling to stay out of the Citrus league basement, football clubs of Santa Ana and Redlands high schools collide tomorrow in the Municipal Bowl at 2:45 p. m.

It will be the next to last game of the season for Coach Bill Foote's Saints who conclude their schedule against San Bernardino here Nov. 18.

For the first time since the Huntington Beach game, which ended in an upset, Santa Ana will be favored. While there is little to choose between the teams on paper, Santa Ana "held" Pomona's title-bound Red Devils 19-0 and Pomona drubbed Redlands 35-7 last week. This would seem to give the Footment a one-touchdown advantage.

Coach Foote says he has respect for Redlands' possibilities, stating the Terriers are much improved over last season when Santa Ana was an easy winner, and recalling that they made more yardage against Pomona than the Saints. Joe Koegler scouted the Terriers and reports that he, too, "fears" the invaders.

This year Redlands is coached by Dale Perkins, onetime Redlands University backfield man who spent part of the summer in "Bo" McMillan's coaching school at Northwestern. Perkins succeeds Bill Maxwell. Perkins has his team throwing the ball around a lot, and an aerial attack is expected to be Redlands' forte here especially since Santa Ana has revealed a definite weakness against passes all term. Chief backfield threats, however, is Ed Kincaid, hefty halfback up from the '37 soph team.

Fullback Bobbie Musick is not listed in Santa Ana's starting backfield but his broken finger will permit him to play part of the game. Aureo Orozco opens, however, with Wayne Piper and Ralph Barnes at the halfback spots and little George Higashi at quarter. Pride Bill Was and Bob Pollard start as ends, Pollard replacing Jim Blackwell. Pride and Webb, tackles; Danning and Mercado, guards and Shallenberger, center, make up the rest of Fotte's starters.

Mercado broke his nose in tackling practice yesterday but, attired in a mask, the nimble little Italian guard is expected to answer the referee's whistle.

Hard hitting Harry Karns and diminutive Francis Monnie, Pomona high school's touchdown twins, are heading the Citrus Belt league scoring parade by a country block with only two more games remaining on their schedule.

Karns has scored five touchdowns and six conversions for a total of 36 points, while Monnie is close behind with five touchdowns at 30 points.

The only other players in the league with more than a single touchdown to their credit are Riverside's Francis Graham and Santa Ana's Wayne Piper.

CARR, RABURN MIX TONIGHT

Starting here several weeks ago in a curtain-raiser, Charlie Carr of Berwick, La., will wrestle Billy Reburn tonight in the top half of the double main event at Orange County Athletic club.

In his match with Carr, Young Raburn will be matched with a different type of matman than he has met before in the O. C. A. C. arena. Quick as a cat, Carr is almost as scientific as Raburn. The fact that he can rough it when he considers such tactics necessary, may give Carr a slight edge over Raburn, who is one of the cleanest wrestlers ever matched in the local arena.

In the second half of the windup, Yukon Jake is matched with "Tarzan" Paul Orth.

Suji Hayamaka, one of six men in the world permitted to wear the Japanese Black Belt for jiu-jitsu, meets Nick Bozinis in a 30-minute feature match.

Two new wrestlers will make their California debut tonight in the curtain raiser when Jackie Nichols of New York wrestles Klem Kusek of Washington.

GATES RETURNS TO DARTHMOUTH ELEVEN

AMHERST, N. H.—(UP)—Harrington (Heavenly) Gates, Dartmouth football star, struggled with himself in the seclusion of a turkey farm in the New Hampshire hills today trying to decide whether to complete his college career or remain in service to the "Holy Ghost and Us" society.

The 24-year-old blond giant from Saugus, Mass., yielded to pleas of his family, and friends yesterday to "consider" resuming his studies and graduating with his class next June.

"We talked very frankly about his going back and he told me that he would go back if he were sure students wouldn't razz him," Police Chief John T. Stuart said, after visiting Gates at the religious sect's Salem farm yesterday.

"He never will play football again, however."

Chicago Board of Trade

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(UP) — Good rains in the winter wheat belt and weak outside markets depressed wheat prices on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

At the close wheat was off ⅜ to ⅝ cent, corn off ⅛ to ¼ cent, and oats unchanged to ⅛ cent lower.

Corn prices declined early in sympathy with wheat, but showed a tendency to hold steady on fair support at fractionally lower levels. Trading was light and mixed. Local corn receipts were estimated at 473 cars, while wheat receipts were placed at 64 cars.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Buying of railroad shares and selling in some of the coppers featured the stock market today. Trading picked up as compared with yesterday's small total.

Several of the rails raeched new highs for the year, including Atlantic Coast Line and Great Northern. Pennsylvania, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Illinois Central and the Southern Railway issues had gains of a point or more.

Liquidation of Anaconda was a drag on the main list from the start when the stock opened on a block of 5000 shares at 36⅝ off ½. It later fell to 35⅞. American Smelting also lost more than a point and other coppers generally were easier.

Stels showed strength at the opening when Bethlehem made a new high at 69½ up 1¼. Others to make new tops included Allegheny Ludlum, Vanadium and Wheeling Steel. U. S. Steel touched 65¼ up ⅝ and then eased.

Railroad equipment issues were higher. American Brake Shoe made a new high at 45¼ up 1¼. Pullman, Lima Locomotive, and Westinghouse Air Brake rose a point or more each.

NEWS OF THE WORLD PORTRAYED IN PICTURES

"Men From Mars" Who Terrorized U. S.

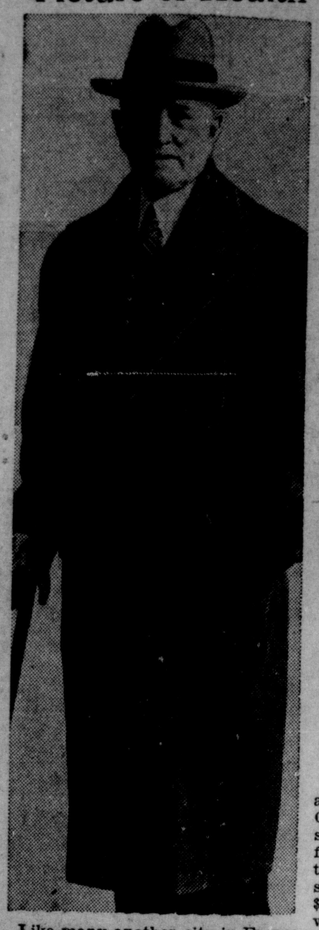

Arms upraised, Orson Welles, radio broadcaster, directs the "War of the Worlds," broadcast that started hysteria among radio listeners throughout the nation and caused actual panicky evacuations from metropolitan areas when Welles described a fictitious and devastating visitation of strange men from Mars. Thousands of persons in every part of the country actually believed that the eastern part of the United States had been invaded and panic was widespread. The Federal Communications Commission has started an investigation of the program.—Acme Telephoto.

Promotion–Or 'Exile'?

Londoners are of two opinions over the recent appointment by King George VI of his younger brother, the Duke of Kent, to be Governor General of Australia. The Duke, pictured above with the Duchess as they recently arrived in London from Scotland, is seen by some as a binder of Empire ties. Others are mindful that the fun-loving Kents have given a gay leadership to London's night-clubbing Mayfair society set, and have been involved in unconventional (for said royalty) incidents. These observers see the appointment as a thinly-disguised "banishment."

Picture of Health

Like many another city in France, the town of Saint-Die remembers with gratitude and affection, the coming of the "Yanks" in the World war. So recently, Saint-Die honored General John J. Pershing and through him the American Expeditionary Force which he commanded, by making him an honorary citizen. Looking as hearty and militarily alert as ever, General Pershing is shown above as he arrived at the American Embassy in Paris, where Paul Elbel, Deputy of Saint-Die, made the presentation.

A Judge Watches a Raid On His Home

The Call Of The Wild

SCENE 1: As King's Parade takes a water jump in beautiful form at the autumn meet of the Essex Fox Hounds at Far Hills, N. J., he appears the ultra-ultra of equine refinement and civilization. But hark What's that? Woodland noises—the call of the wild! Away with this effete existence as a pampered pet! Now—

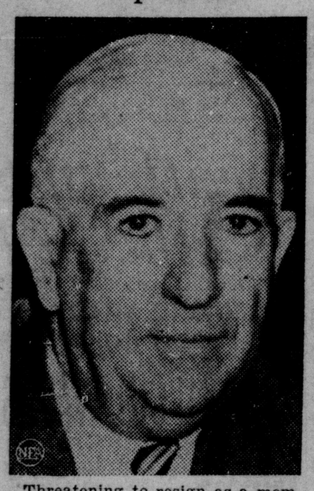

SCENE 2: A moment after clearing the jump, King's Parade, that picture of perfection in horseflesh, dumped his rider, broke through a fence and lit out for the woods. In the photo you see Jockey Jack McGee trying to recapture him in the depths of the Jersey jungle. Even a horse may sometimes crave to get away from it all.

Swing Has Upsetting Effect

That swing music has a very upsetting effect on some folks is demonstrated by the couple who make up the animated "X" pictured above. They are contestants in the "Fall Frolic", a recent swing session in staid Boston's Garden, attended by 28,000 frenzied jitterbugs. Musical stimulus for the rhythmic fits thrown by the swingsters came from the orchestras of Benny Goodman and Rudy Vallee.

Raps Dies

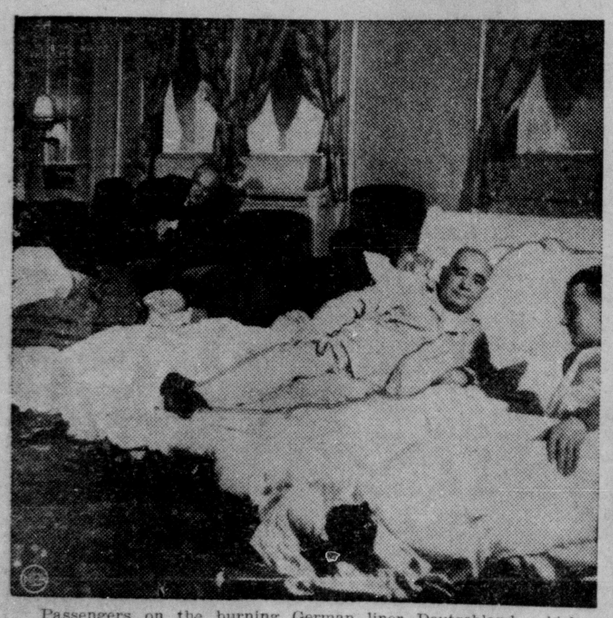

Threatening to resign as a member of the Dies committee investigating un-American activities, Representative John J. Dempsey above, (D.—N.M.), assailed what he called the committee's "character assassinations." Dempsey was in his home state campaigning for reelection.

Goes to the Movies

What are the Duke and Duchess of Windsor doing these days? Well, for one thing they're going to the movies just like other folk. The duke, cigar in hand and smiling, is pictured with his lady, arriving for a Danielle Darrieux premiere at a Paris theater.

Fire On Deutschland Didn't Panic Them

Passengers on the burning German liner Deutschland, which caught fire 200 miles off Cape Race, Newfoundland, refused to get panicky during the 10-hour fight to control the blaze. Pictured are third-class passengers who spent the night on improvised beds in the ladies' tourist class parlor after smoke drove them from their staterooms. Capt. Karl Steincke brought the ship to port without a casualty. There were no pictures of the blaze.

His ship safely docked at New York after a 10-hour battle with fire at sea, Capt. Karl Steincke of the German liner Deutschland is pictured as he reported none of the crew of 390 or the 600 passengers had been injured.

Jumper On Sit-Down Strike

Going over one of the jumps in the Inter-American Horse Show at Washington, "Swing Easy," ridden by Donald Sutherland III, staged an involuntary sit-down strike when it toppled the rails and landed in the statuesque sitting position pictured above. Sutherland kept control, and rider and horse landed right side up with no damage done.

Ousted

Less than 24 hours after he was named along with 72 others in grand jury indictments charging fund diversion in New Mexico's WPA administration, Stanley W. P. Miller, above, assistant U. S. district attorney, was fired by the government. He is a son-in-law of Senator Dennis Chavez of New Mexico.

"Flying Ferris Wheel" Awaits Test

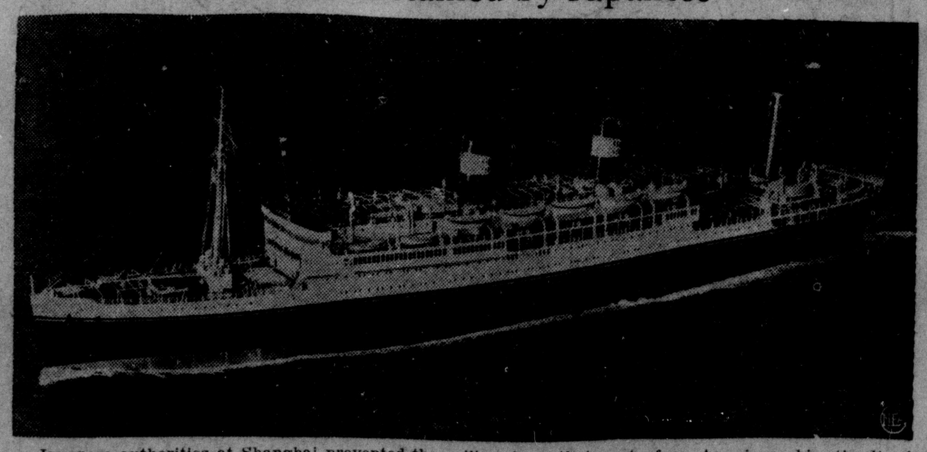

Their queer-looking, wingless "plane" almost ready for a test, Henri Van Zandt and Louis Chequet, French inventors working at Port Chester, N. Y., confidently expect the contrivance, pictured above, to rise vertically into the air and remain virtually motionless if the pilot desires. The ferris-wheel-like contraptions jutting from all sides are triple blades intended to lift it aloft by "scooping" up the air.

American Liner Held At Shanghai By Japanese

The American-owned Dollar liner President Coolidge, held at Shanghai when the Japanese-controlled maritime customs refused to issue clearance papers and prevented the liner sailing for San Francisco with a shipment of silver valued at $4,000,000.

U. S. Liner Detained by Japanese

Japanese authorities at Shanghai prevented the sailing from that port of an American ship, the President Coolidge, pictured above, as it was about to depart for the United States with a shipment of $4,500,000 in silver. The metal, mostly jewelry and tableware contributed by Chinese patriots to their government for war purposes, was being shipped to the Chase National Bank of New York. Unable to sail on schedule, the 21,936-ton Dollar liner unloaded the silver hoping to avoid further delay.
